Here we see our Principal, Mr. Townsend, discussing the evaluation plans with members of the faculty. Our Principal is a busy man. There is always a meeting to attend, our troublesome questions and inquiries to be heard, and so many managing jobs to demand his attention. Sometimes we doubt if we really realize all the worries he endures so that we students might have a better place in which to further our education.

OUR SCHOOL

IN ACTION

SUGAR

HOMEMAKING

Learning how to sew expertly is just one thing the girls in the Vocational Home Economics department learn to do.

This skill learned here really pays off in a big way. If a girl cannot find the style of dress she wants, she can purchase the material and make the dress herself.

Think of the dollars she can save, too, when she begins to rear a family of children.

The homemaking classes of Bedford High School make it a point from time to time to prepare displays of artificial flowers to be shown in our many showcases in our halls. These display cases always attract much attention, not only from visitors to our school, but from our student body in general.

The girls shown here are making artificial flowers.

HOMEMAKING

Learning the art of entertaining is an integrated part of the General Homemaking Program in the eleventh year. Gracious entertainment is just as important as lovely flower arrangement or serving one's family a well-balanced meal. Mrs. Gloria Wilson (center), one of the instructors in the Home Ec Department, says: "We should entertain often, plan with care, and have the best time of anyone there."

Here, Shirley Stiffler is preparing the frosting for a cake she has just baked. Notice how neatly and attractively Shirley is attired.

Mrs. Mary Wallace, the instructor stresses the importance of safety in the kitchen at all times, so Shirley has turned the handle of the pan inward across the top of the stove.

Take note of the growing plant the students have placed in the kitchen to make the place more attractive.

HOMEMAKING

Just what sort of concoction Mary E. Beegle is making, we don't know, but we do know the amount of vanilla she is adding will be the correct amount. The Home Economics instructors impress strongly upon all the girls the importance of exact measurements if successful results are to be expected. We believe Mary has learned her lesson well.

Centerpieces are considered an important part of homemaking. Flower arrangements can be nicely arranged for centerpieces. The girls shown here, Anna Benna and Sandy Martz, are getting some practice in this phase of homemaking.

Beautiful decorations can do much to make a house into a lovely home.

HOMEMAKING

The sewing machine is an important part of the young American home. In Bedford High School the future homemakers have an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with and use modern and up-to-date equipment, as well as a chance to receive top training in this field.

The new home economics room, which has been equipped with one of the latest styles of washer and dryer combinations has been in use for only two years. The girls are taught proper use of the machines and correct laundry procedure from start to finish. With this modern equipment, the girls find the course both pleasant and educational.

HOMEMAKING

In our Homemaking Department, the sewing machine is a very important piece of equipment. Every student in this department knows how important the sewing machine is in any home.

Here we see an instructor overseeing the work of a very interested student. Before the girls are allowed to use these machines, they must learn the function of each part of the machine.

The girls are permitted to decide the type of garments they desire to create—the pattern, type of material, etc.

It is very interesting to note how very skilled some of these girls become in the use of a power sewing machine, after only a few weeks of instruction.

Another facet of the Home Economics Course is table arrangement and setting. The table arrangement consists of centerpiece and decorations for the table, while the setting consists of the linen, silver, china, glasses, and serving dishes.

The girl we see here would appear to be putting the finishing touches on a very attractive table setting. To some people the time and effort used in arranging fine table settings may seem wasted, but I believe most of us will agree that food appears to taste much better when it is served in a delightful atmosphere.

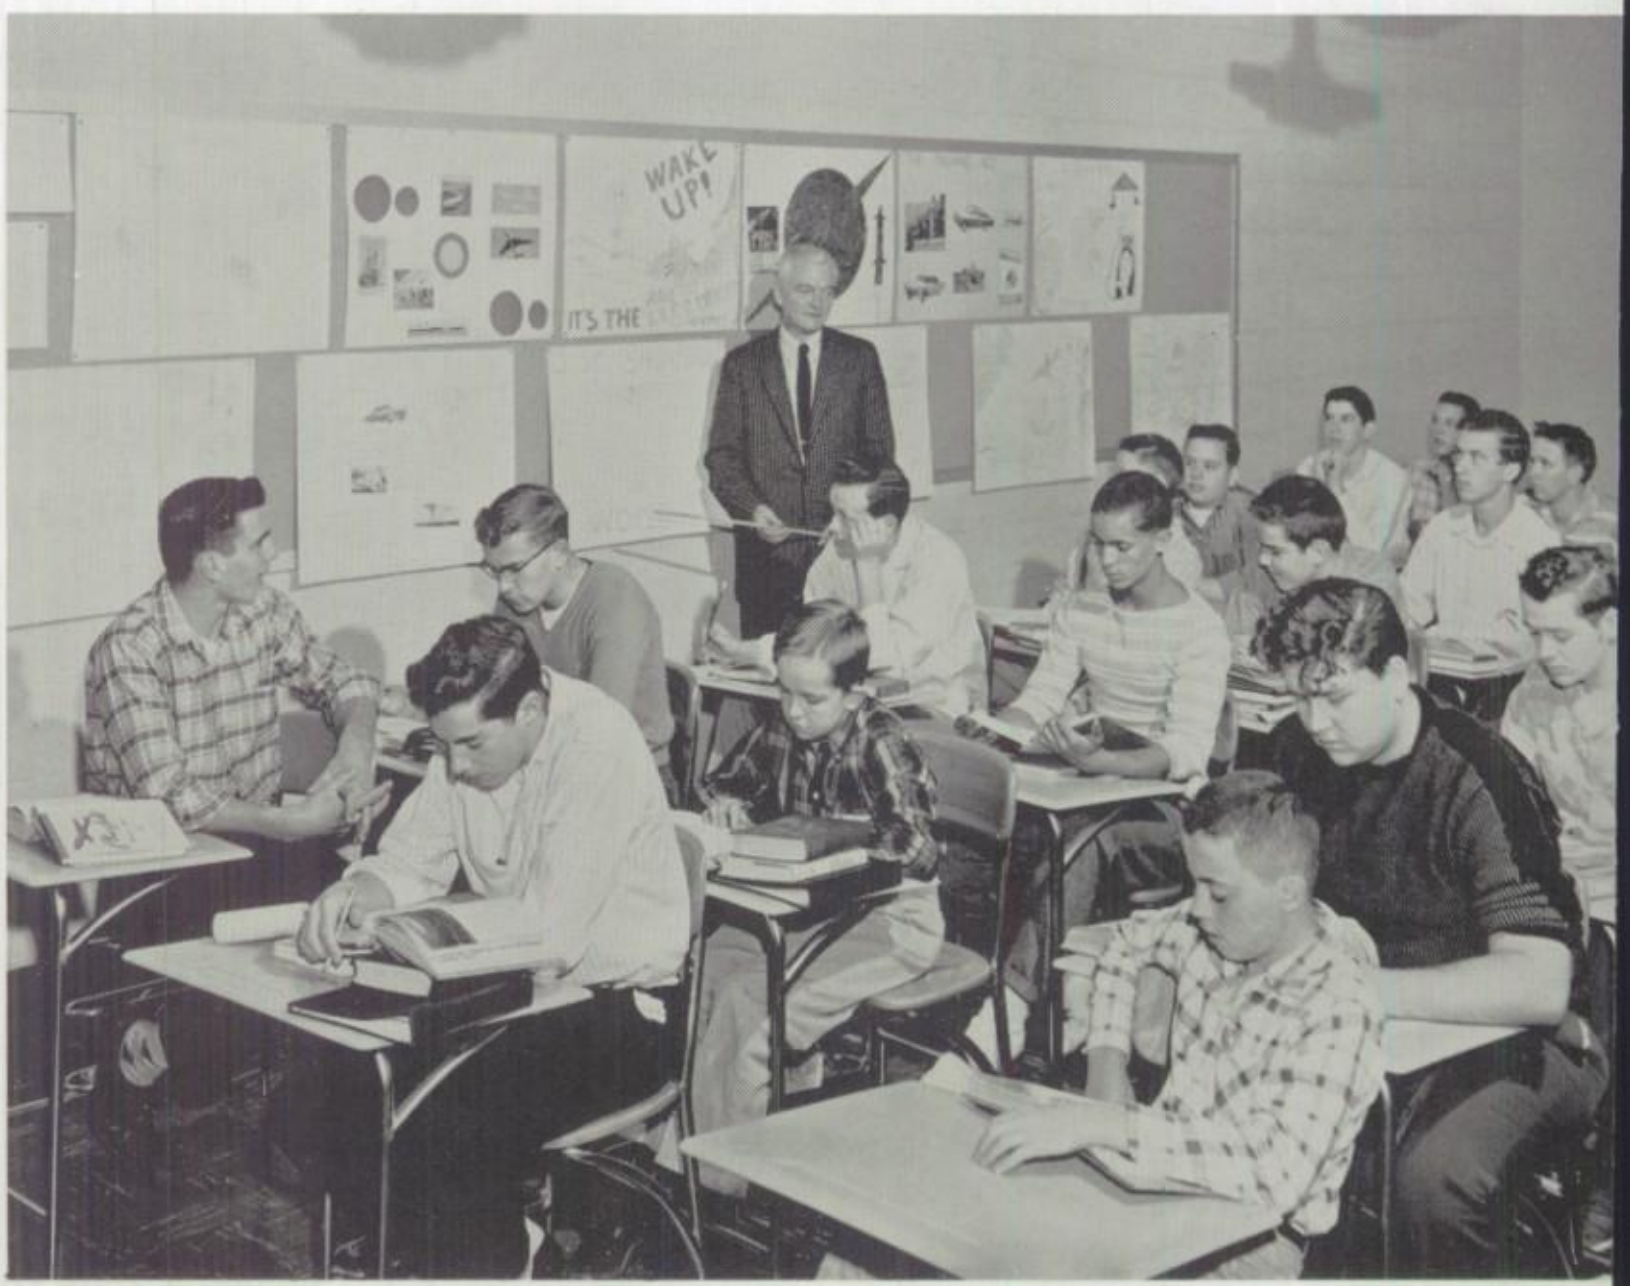
We must remember always that there is no excellence without great labor.

HOMEMAKING

Proper food is often a topic of discussion. Here a group has been chosen by the instructor to serve on a panel which has been instructed to discuss the significance of the "Basic 7." The girls have been taught the importance of nutrition and what foods serve the body best.

Along with the study of food and nutrition, the preparation and preservation of the food is also studied. This, too, is very important. Making use of what the instructor has taught them, these girls are completing the process of canning peaches. The class finds the instruction both interesting and profitable.

GEOGRAPHY



Economic geography is offered as an elective to students in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth years. This is a highly interesting and profitable course and is taught by Mr. Harold Wilkinson, who, incidentally, is head football coach in B.H.S.

Our students learn here that no one can live on the earth without being influenced by nature.

Some of our students become very ambitious in the study of geography.

At the left, John Strawbridge is explaining to two of his classmates a real "live sputnik" which he has built and suspended in space. He is telling the girls that sometime in the not too distant future, all of us will have the opportunity to ride one of these things to the moon.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

For the first time, Bedford High School is this year offering work in Special Education. This department is supervised by a full-time instructor. The program was really started in April 1957, but this is the first full school year it has been in operation. The degree of success which we attain with this program will probably determine its future in our school.

Our Special Education work is in charge of Mrs. Nancy Mavilla. We discovered that some students can do better work if they have more time in which to do their work than can be allowed them in the regular class period.

In Special Education the students work progressively in English, mathematics, social science, and health. Each student is given the opportunity to work individually.

B.H.S. BAND

The Bedford High School Band is a vital organization in our school and Director Hunsicker along with the musicians merit our very high praise.

The average person little realizes the total effort that must be expended before a band can march upon the field or take its place upon a concert platform. It is difficult to imagine any achievement more costly in time, effort, patience, and money than that of becoming a skilled musician. And by the same token, it is difficult to imagine any achievement which brings a deeper or a longer-lasting satisfaction.

FIRST ROW: Mylah Clark, Guy Feather, Barbara Mostoller, Jane Shaffer, Bernetta Farabaugh, Greg Fisher, Patti McGill, Karen Green, Michael Fungaroli, Mr. Forest Hunsicker, Director.

How many billions of words have been spoken by parents and teachers in attempting to keep boys and girls practicing on their instruments? When we see a band in action, we must remember that we are watching only a victorious few out of the total number who at one time made a beginning. The students in this, or any band, have subjected themselves to much self-discipline. Surely they are entitled to the deep satisfaction of joy they experience when they receive the compliments and the welling murmur of pride from the spectators.

ANOTHER TOSCANINI? WHO KNOWS?

To do anything, you must be a beginner first. That is what we see here in these two pictures—beginners, starting on their musical career. Right now all of Richard Shoap's musical ability on the trombone, and Harry Gardner's ability on the bass, just consists of blowing a few notes; however, practice makes perfect, so they say.

Music can enrich one's life to such a great extent, and what better way is there to get a musical education than by taking advantage of our music department, one of the best in Pennsylvania, as these two boys are doing. Of course, they will receive much capable help and instruction from Mr. Forrest Hunsicker, but practicing plays an important role, too.

Playing in the band is not all work—it is largely pleasure. Pleasure derived from playing in parades at the football games, concerts, etc., and giving one a feeling that he is someone special.

Richard and Harry are only in the seventh grade now, so perhaps if they work hard enough, in a few years or even sooner, they may realize that one of their dreams has at last come true.

On the following pages, you will see pictures of some of the more accomplished musicians of Bedford High School.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

A newly-organized special group of the music department is a Trumpet Trio, composed of juniors Carol Raugh, Georgia Como, and Mary Palmer. These talented girls make up the first all-girl trumpet trio in Bedford High School's music history. As well as playing in the annual band concert, they also furnish special music for numerous school and community activities.

Another one of the special music groups of the music department is the French Horn Quartet, made up of Alice Farabaugh, Ann Townsend, Eve Ann Hershberger, and Eleanor Madore. These girls devote extra time to playing as a quartet, as well as making up the largest part of the French Horn section of the Bedford High School Blue and White Band.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Driver Training in our school is an elective course open to junior and senior students. It is a rather comprehensive course involving many areas having to do with a motor vehicle. The student is taught that the automobile is a very lethal machine and that the driver is not only responsible for his own safety, but for the safety of other people as well. He is shown how personal factors enter into the picture that that because of his great responsibility, he cannot afford to drive when he is upset physically or emotionally. With behind-the-wheel instruction, the student is taught step by step, how to put the car in motion and to operate it smoothly and intelligently. Mr. Doyle, the instructor, teaches his students good traffic behavior and imparts to them the knowledge they need to know for solo driving. This includes rules of the road and actual driving situations the student will meet when he drives alone. Finally, the student is taught what he will need to know about a car to keep it in good condition. Mr. Doyle works on the theory that safe driving is a skill which should be learned by thorough and organized instruction. He constantly impresses upon his students that the safe driver is never a show-off—one who likes to make the grandstand play; one who gets himself into bad situations in order to show how well he can get out of them. Students are constantly warned that a safe driver is not one who tries to attract attention by weaving in and out of lanes of traffic, or makes his passengers gasp by speeding up to a red light and stopping with a jolt. We are firmly convinced that any student who successfully completes our Driver Training course will be highly benefited.

FIRST-AID INSTRUCTION

Who can estimate the value of our first-aid instruction? Perhaps everyone will admit that its value is priceless.

Splints are carefully placed on a broken arm so the patient may be safely moved to the doctor or hospital.

DENTAL HEALTH

Many a dentist would be proud to have this fine dental chair in his office. This chair, . . . or, rather complete dental unit, . . . is ultra-modern in every respect. It will serve the dental needs of our school for many years to come. The young man in the chair would appear to be "all set" for his periodic dental check-up. After the students receive their check-up, the results are sent to the parents along with recommendations for dental care. The policy followed in B.H.S. assures every student the dental care he needs and provides every parent with a complete analysis of the dental health of his child.

We see in the picture below, our school nurse, Miss Mary Morse, administering the Pure Tone Audiometer hearing test to a B.H.S. student. This hearing test is given to the students every two years.

Each year the eleventh graders are given a complete physical examination by our school physician, Dr. Edward A. Shields. If any abnormal condition is found in any student, a careful report is made to the parents.

Every year a tubercular test is given to all students; those over fifteen years of age receive a chest x-ray, and those under fifteen receive the tubercular skin test. If a positive reaction is found from the skin test, then an x-ray examination is made. If an x-ray examination reveals a possibility of tuberculosis, the case along with all information is turned over to the student's family physician.

We have a rather ambitious health program in Bedford High School and it costs a great deal in the way of effort and money, but we feel that the general good health of our student body fully justifies the expenditure.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Many times when walking past the gymnasium, one may hear joyous sounds emitting therefrom—a whistle, happy voices, or just the thud of tennis shoes on the floor. Peering in the door, one may see boys or girls putting their hearts and souls into some sport. Dressed in pure white suits, they make a beautiful picture for one's eyes. Yes, these are Bedford High School students participating in physical education classes. Physical education is a course taken by every student unless he or she has secured a doctor's certificate stating that the student is not physically fit to engage in this type of activity.

Physical education has for its objectives the building of healthy bodies, developing gracefulness, promoting good sportsmanship, and to help students form good habits of living. In Bedford High School there are many sports taught in the physical education classes—in the fall, football, soccer, and softball are played, while in the winter students enjoy basketball, volleyball, badminton, wrestling, and tumbling. Calisthenics are used for developing strength and gracefulness.

Clubs have been formed for special sports. The volleyball, tumbling, basketball, and wrestling clubs are for students who desire to learn more about these sports. These clubs also give students the opportunity to become better acquainted with other students who have the same interests.

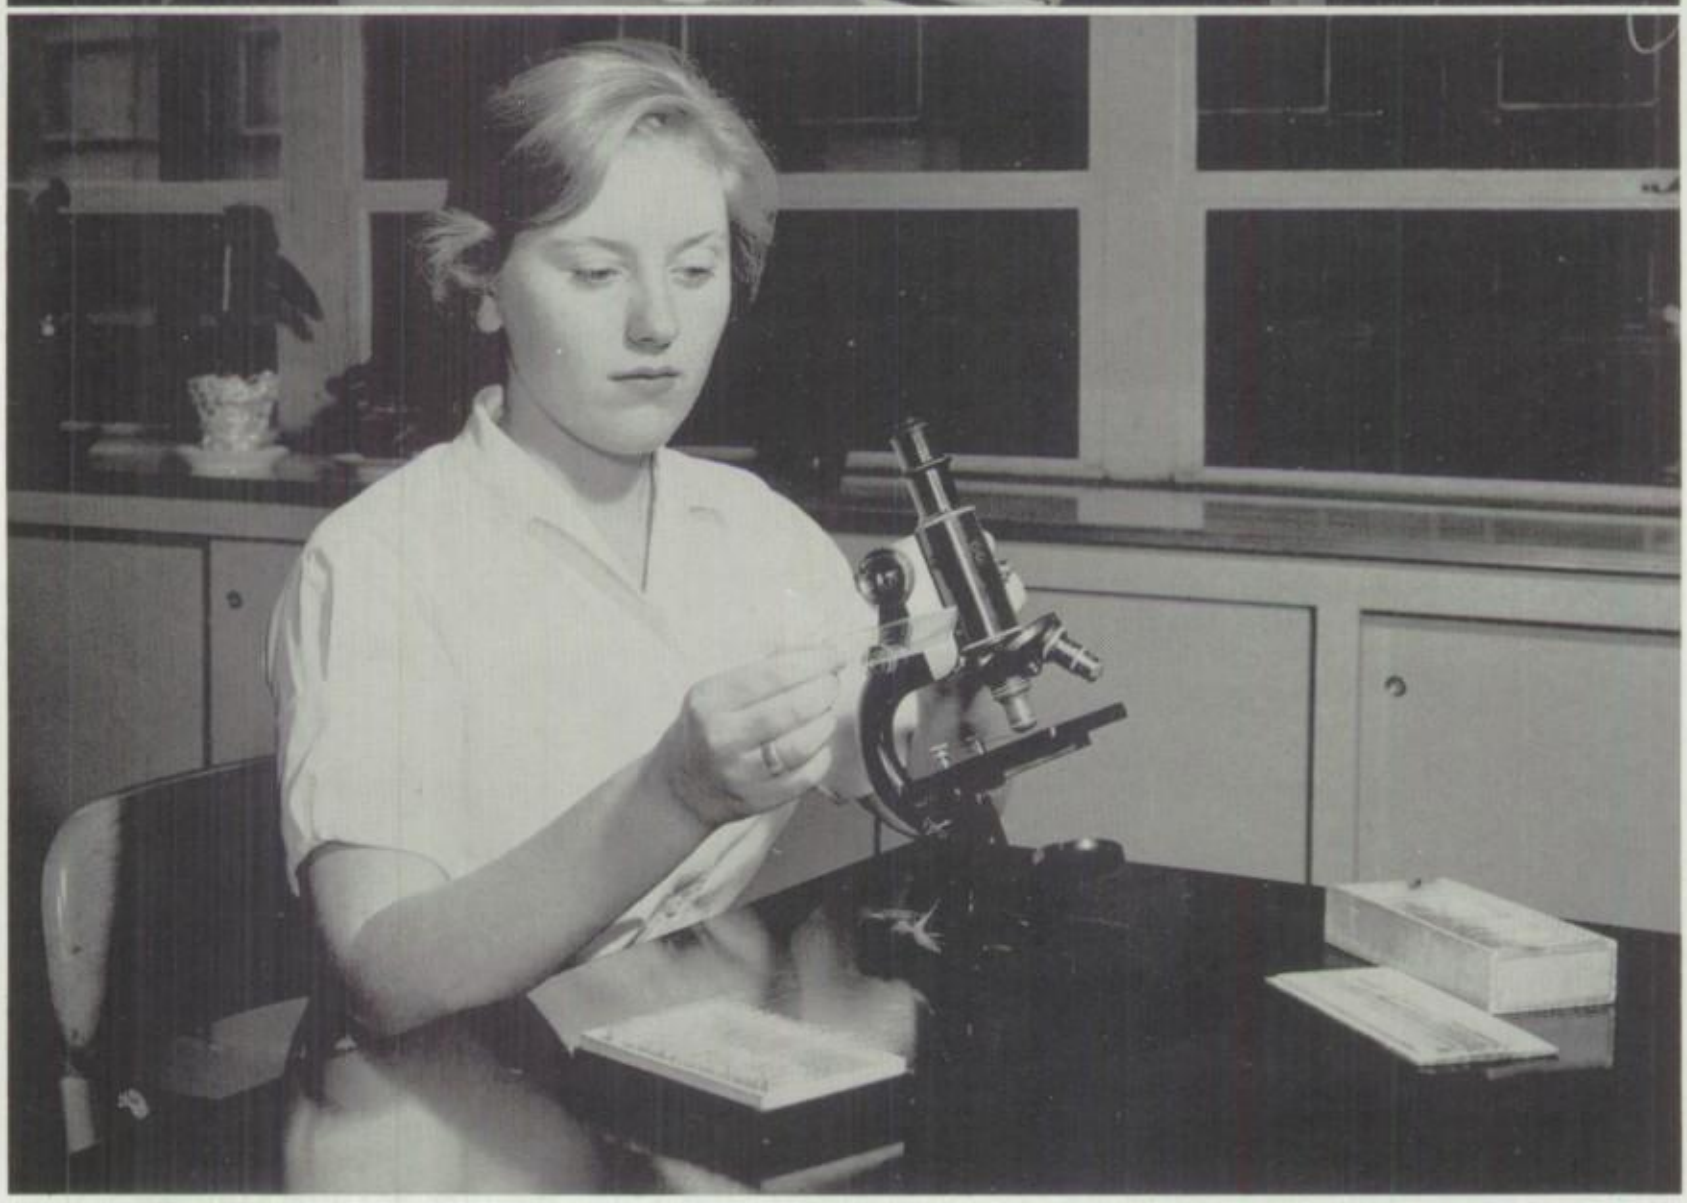
Our new gymnasium has the most modern equipment for all physical education activities. Instructors are always present to assist with the sports and activities.

This picture shows one of the many stunts mastered by students in B.H.S. gym classes. This boy has practiced the forward dive until he can now dive over five of his classmates without touching any of them. The boys learn how to fall without injuring themselves or their classmates.

Instructor Phillippe explains the game of badminton to a group of eager physical education girls. Even though badminton is a summer sport, the instructors include it in the physical education program. Such sports do much to teach the students good sportsmanship.

The athletic-looking seniors are shown forming a pyramid in the tumbling phase of the girls' physical education course. This course also provides experiences in baseball, softball, soccer, volleyball, badminton, golf, and dancing. Under the supervision and direction of Miss Ellen Phillippi and Mrs. Joan Thomas Baker, the junior and senior high school girls take two periods of gym a week. Our school today is interested in producing graduates with strong healthy bodies as well as sound minds.

Here, instructor Koontz is making use of illustrated charts to make the study of biology easier and more interesting. Theodosia Koontz points out the myrtle warbler, one of over 100 varieties of birds common to our area.



Here, Shirley Burkett is getting ready to peer into the magic eye of a fine microscope. When one does this, a new realm of bacteria, protozoa, and cells will become a reality. The science department of B.H.S. is fortunate in having fine microscopes for the free use of all students to enrich their study.

This typical biology scene indicates the courage of two girls as they dissect the rana pipiens, or frog, while the boy watches—naturally! This is a very interesting section of the study of this course. But pity the poor frogs. What a way to die!

In biology, sophomores have unlimited opportunities to display their hobbies, which may relate to the course of study, as this boy is doing. He is showing his interesting collection of sea shells to a group of fascinated onlookers.

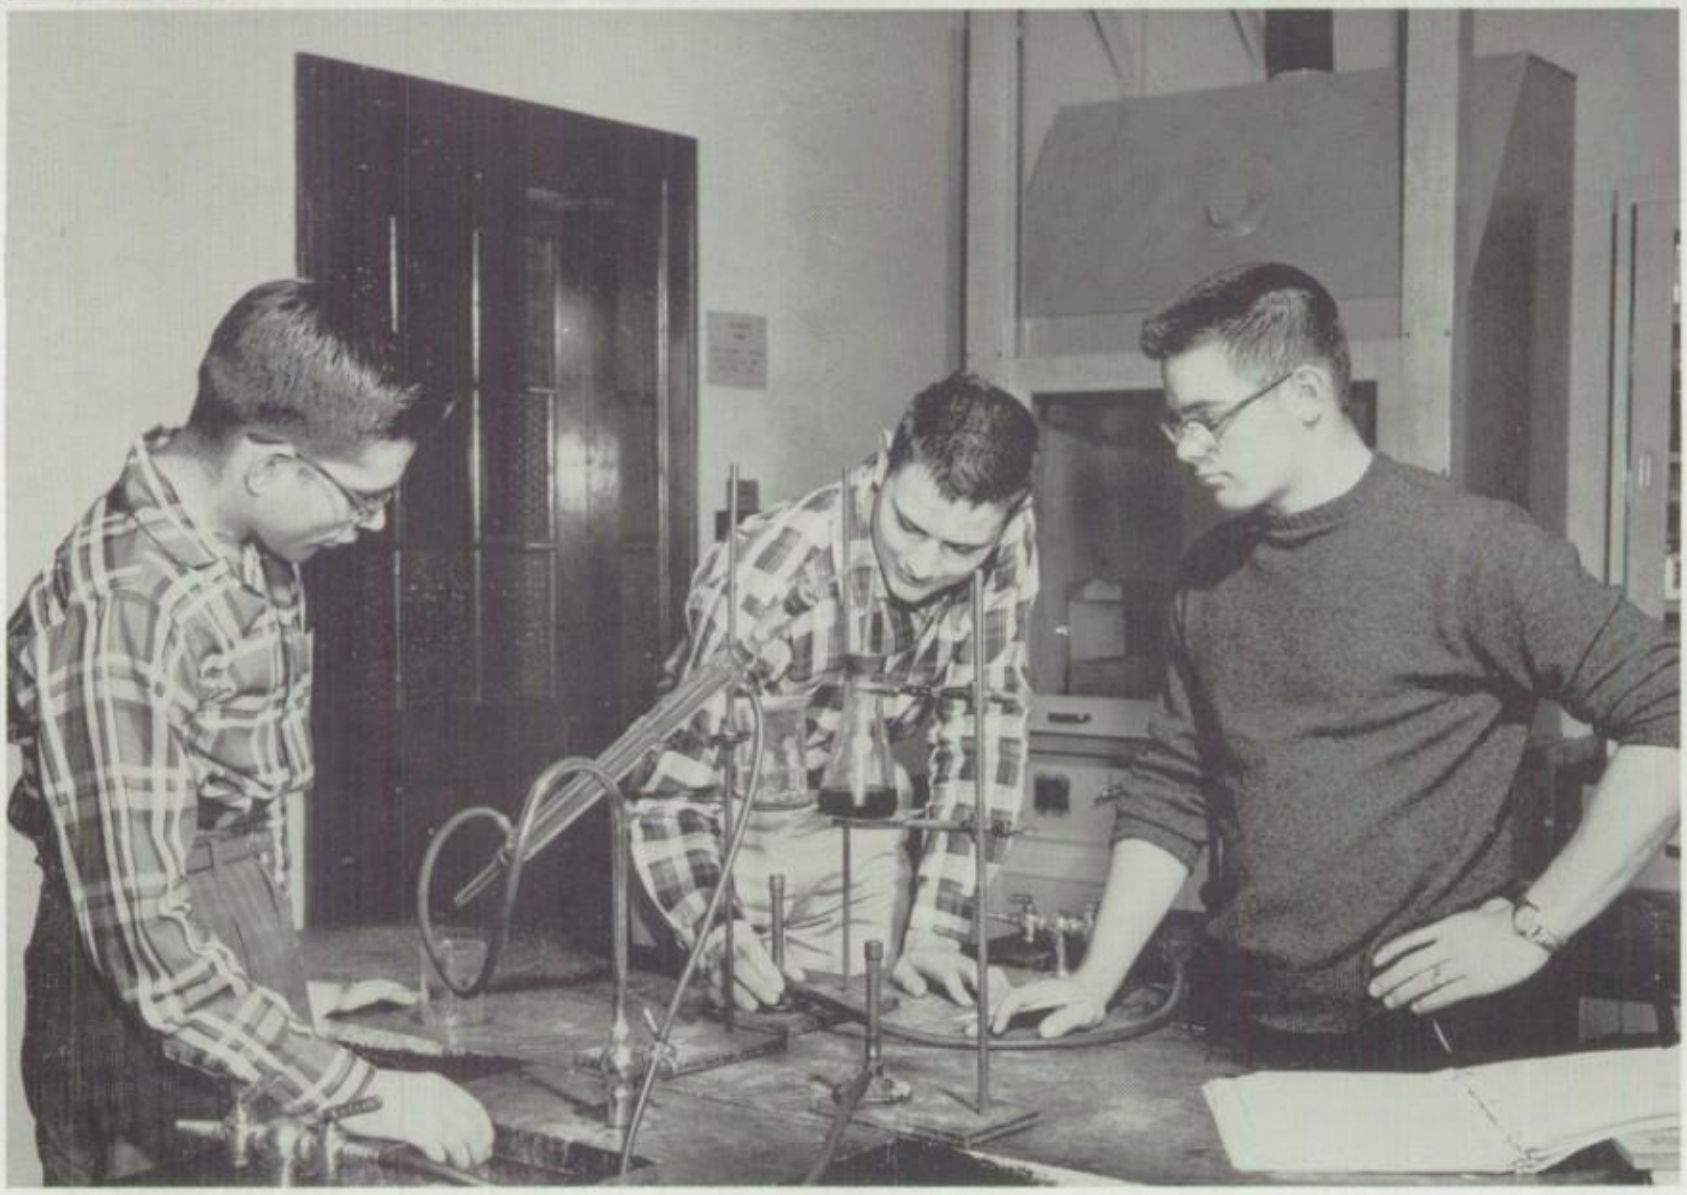
Instructor Croft supervises as students operate the rotary vacuum pump which will create a high vacuum quickly. A motor in the machine is used to turn a cylinder which rotates off center inside the case, causing vane valves to push down against a rotating cylinder creating high vacuum.

In this physics experiment, a piece of apparatus is used to determine the tensile strength of wire. By means of this machine the tensile strength can be determined for a material and can be expressed in pounds per square inch.

These four students are performing what is known to them in physics class as Hook's Law. "Within the limits of perfect elasticity, strain is directly proportional to stress." The experiment here is being made with the use of a spring and weights to prove that the spring is capable of returning to its original shape after deformation by weights.

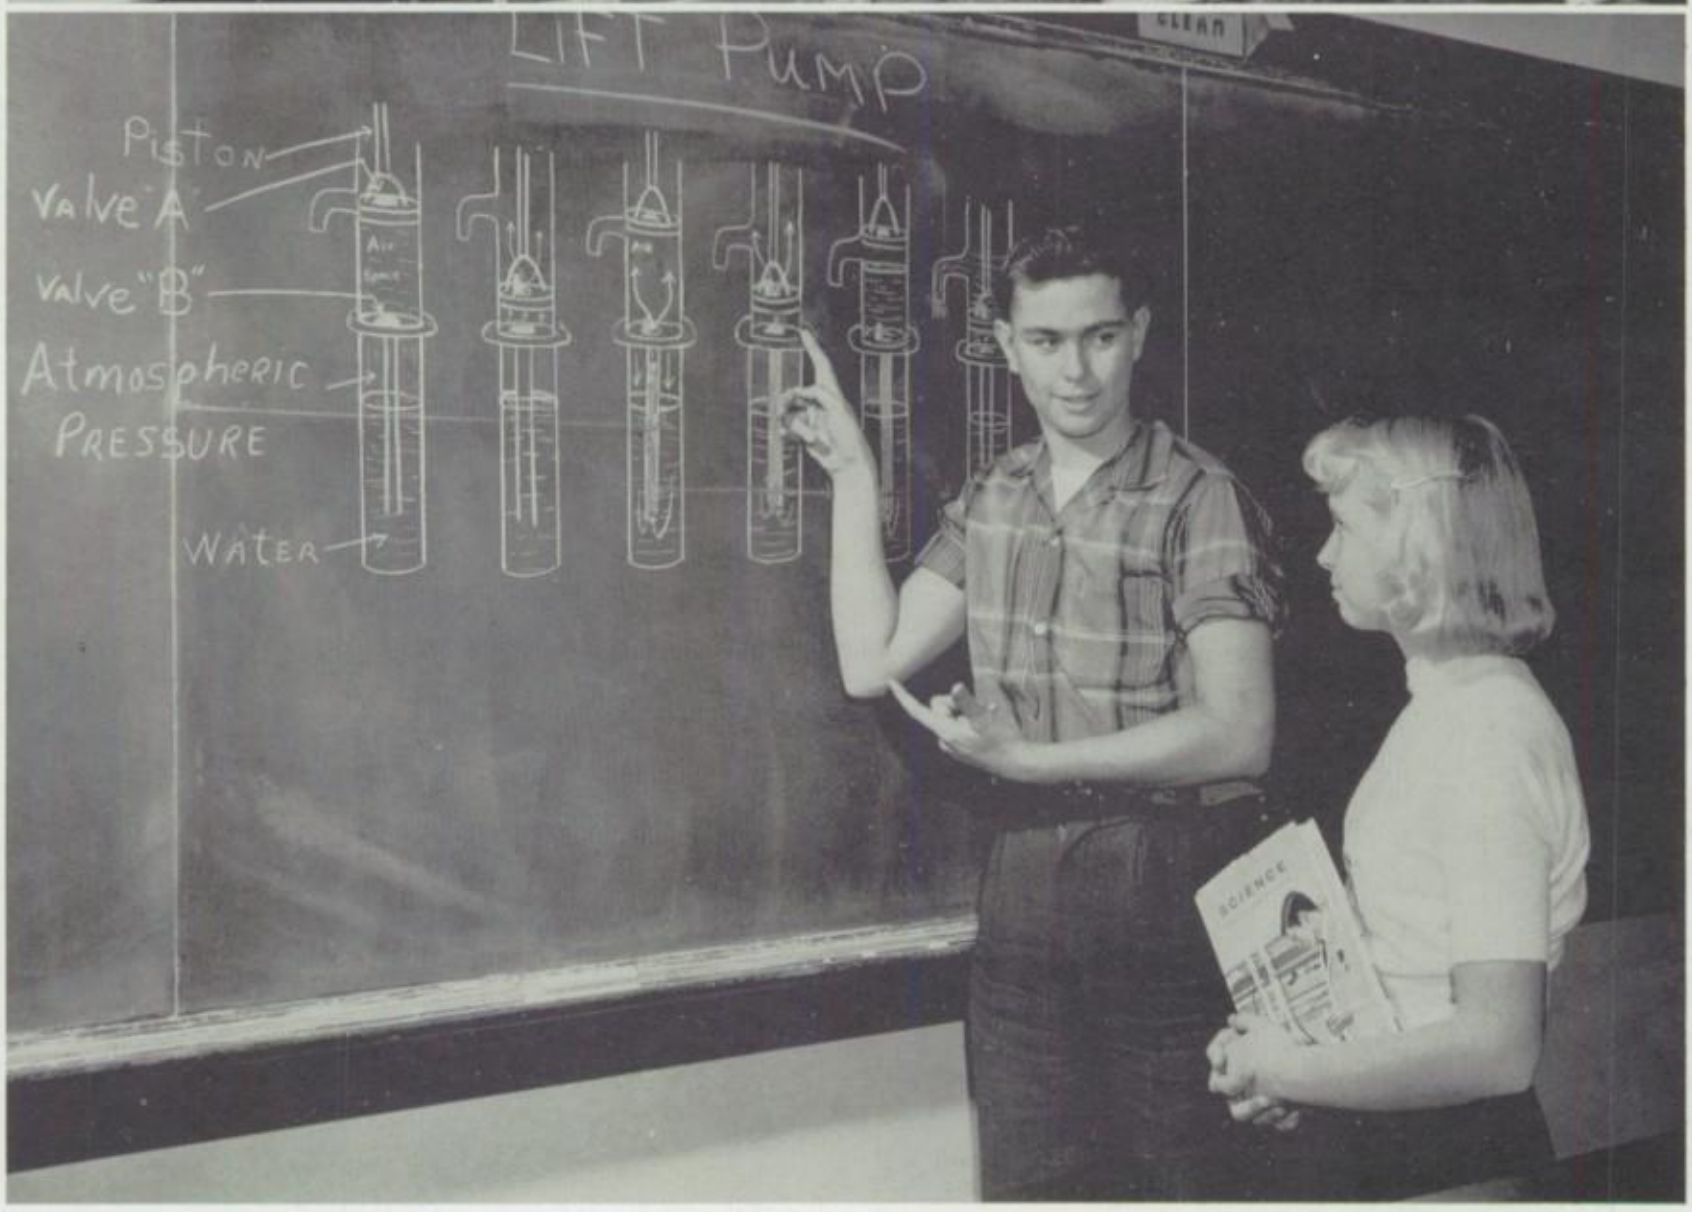
Here, students perform a dust explosion in a class in chemistry. An explosion can occur when powdered substance is loose enough so that oxygen can mix with it readily. This has often happened in coal mines, causing great destruction of property and loss of life.

Ann Townsend, Bonnie Levar, and Judy McKinley perform an experiment in water electrolysis in a class in chemistry. After placing a small amount of water and sulphuric acid therein, the apparatus is connected to several dry cells. We observe a gas being given off at each platinum electrode.



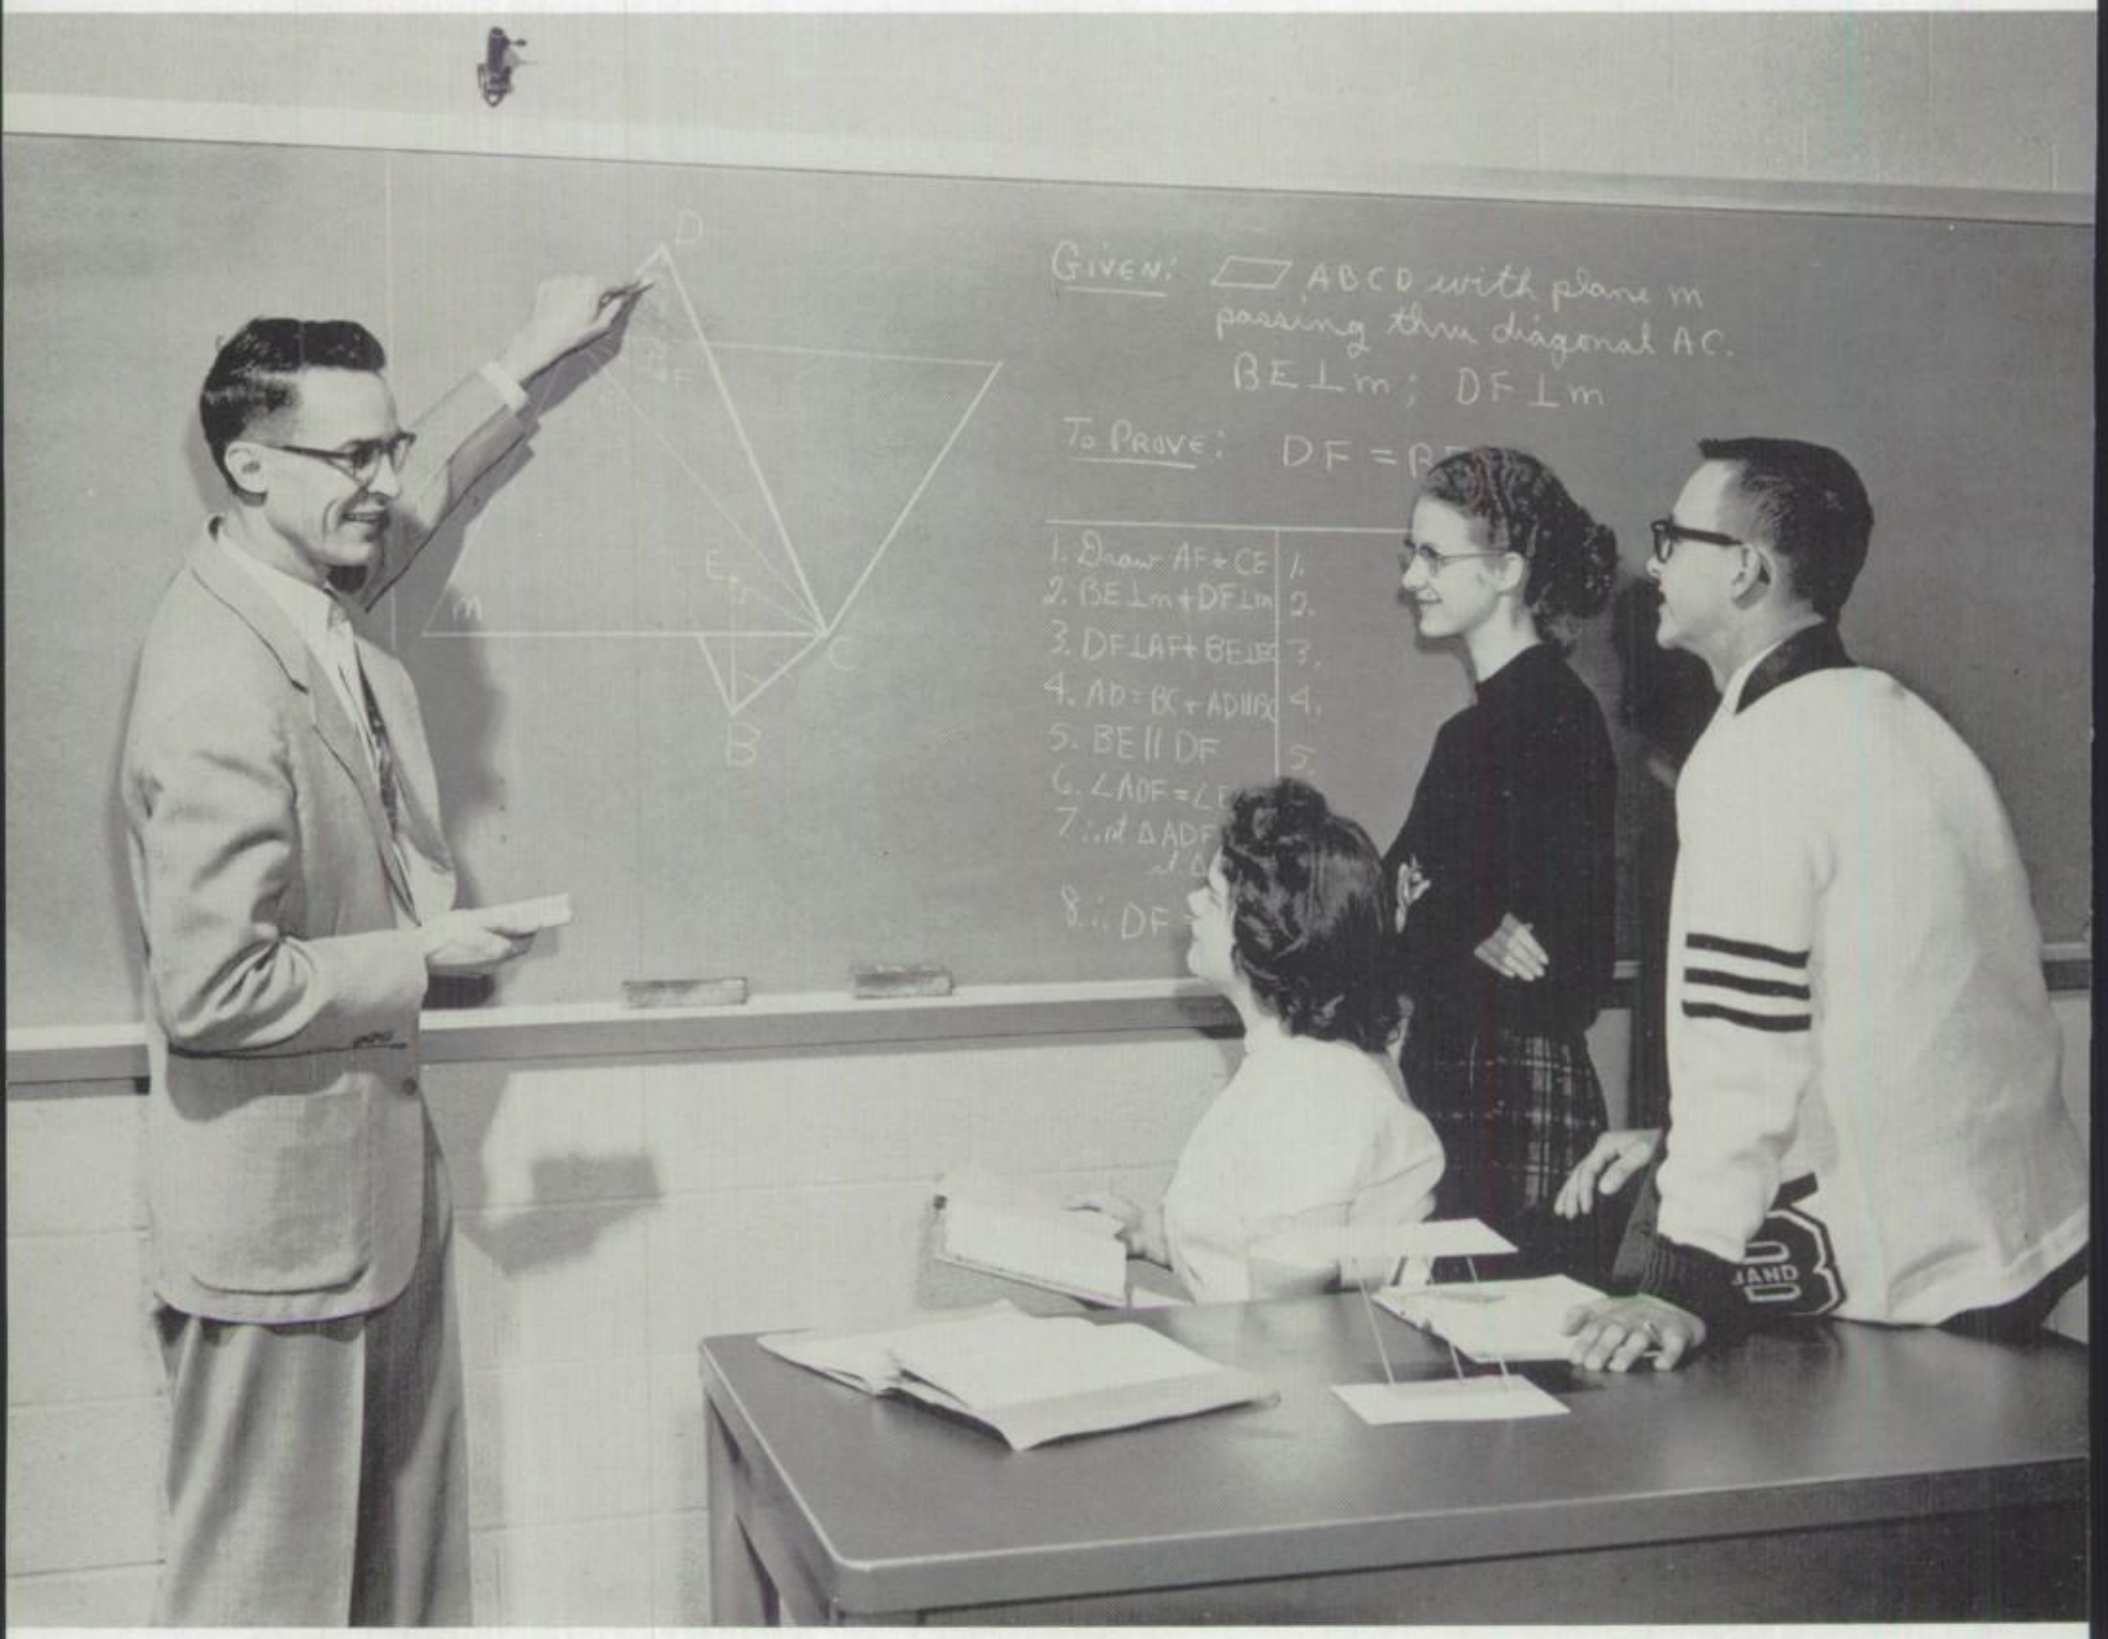
These students discover how a mixture of liquids can be separated by making use of their boiling points, such as is done in distilling petroleum. The impurities in the liquids do not vaporize and will remain in the generator.

These students with the advice of instructor McKolosky are performing an experiment in the distillation of wood. In science the experimental method is used much today to study the environment and to seek answers to our questions.



In this picture William Dively is showing Donna James how a lift pump operates. Each picture designates a position that a pump would be in to draw water from a well. These are actually compression and vacuum pumps used before the modern electric pumps were invented.

MATHEMATICS



One of the most important facts about the world is that the objects in it can be counted and the masses can be measured. As soon as man began to count, even on his fingers, mathematics came into being.

Mathematics is the science of the relationship existing among quantities, magnitudes, and properties; and of logical operations involving quantities, magnitudes, and properties, through which unknown quantities, magnitudes, and properties may be deduced. We are fortunate to have such a fine mathematics department here at Bedford High School. The department offers arithmetic, algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry.

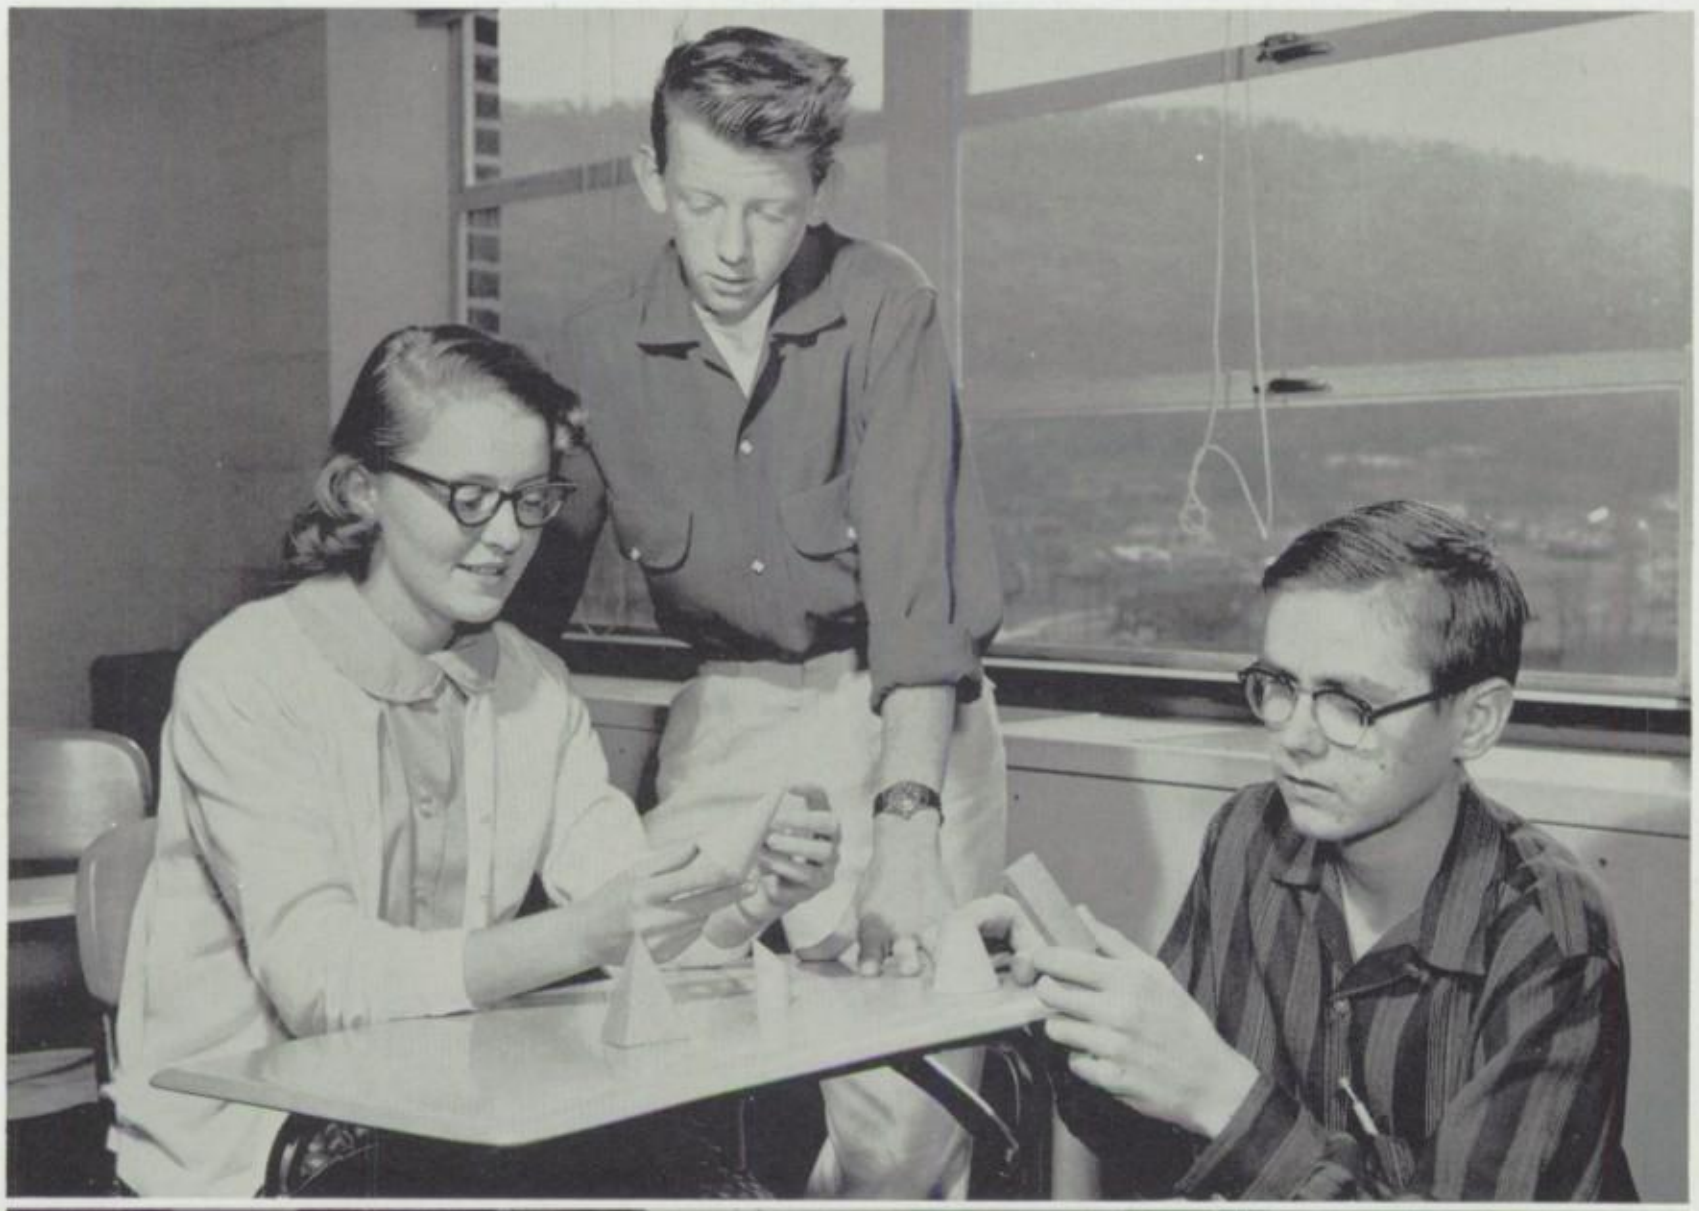
There are many fundamentals of arithmetic which a student must master before he or she is ready to attempt the higher forms of mathematics.

Finding an unknown part or quantity is the basic aim of mathematics. In algebra one is taught to solve problems having one or two unknown quantities. In plane geometry, the student studies plane figures and their relationship toward one another. He uses points and lines that lie in the same plane to form new figures.

Solid geometry is the study of the relations of figures in one plane to figures in another plane, and in applying the theorems and corollaries to every-day problems.

The most advanced mathematics course offered in B.H.S. is trigonometry. It is the study of the relationship of different parts of a triangle. Like other mathematical courses, trigonometry is used extensively in engineering.

Linda Livengood, Bill Jones, and Melvin Huston take time out from their solid geometry class to concentrate on one of the more important theorems pertaining to the relationship of lines and planes.



Solid geometry students, Marilyn Reese and Carol Raugh, demonstrate the how-and-why of a hexahedron and a polyhedron to one of Mr. Heacock's classes. Bedford High students study solid geometry the first semester of their junior year.

Three juniors take time out to concentrate on one of the more important theorems of geometry pertaining to the relationship of lines and planes.

Arithmetic is both a science and an art and is the basis of all higher mathematics. As a science it deals with basic facts. As an art its chief function is the application of these facts. It enters into our daily lives in telling time, in making change, and in all forms of measuring.

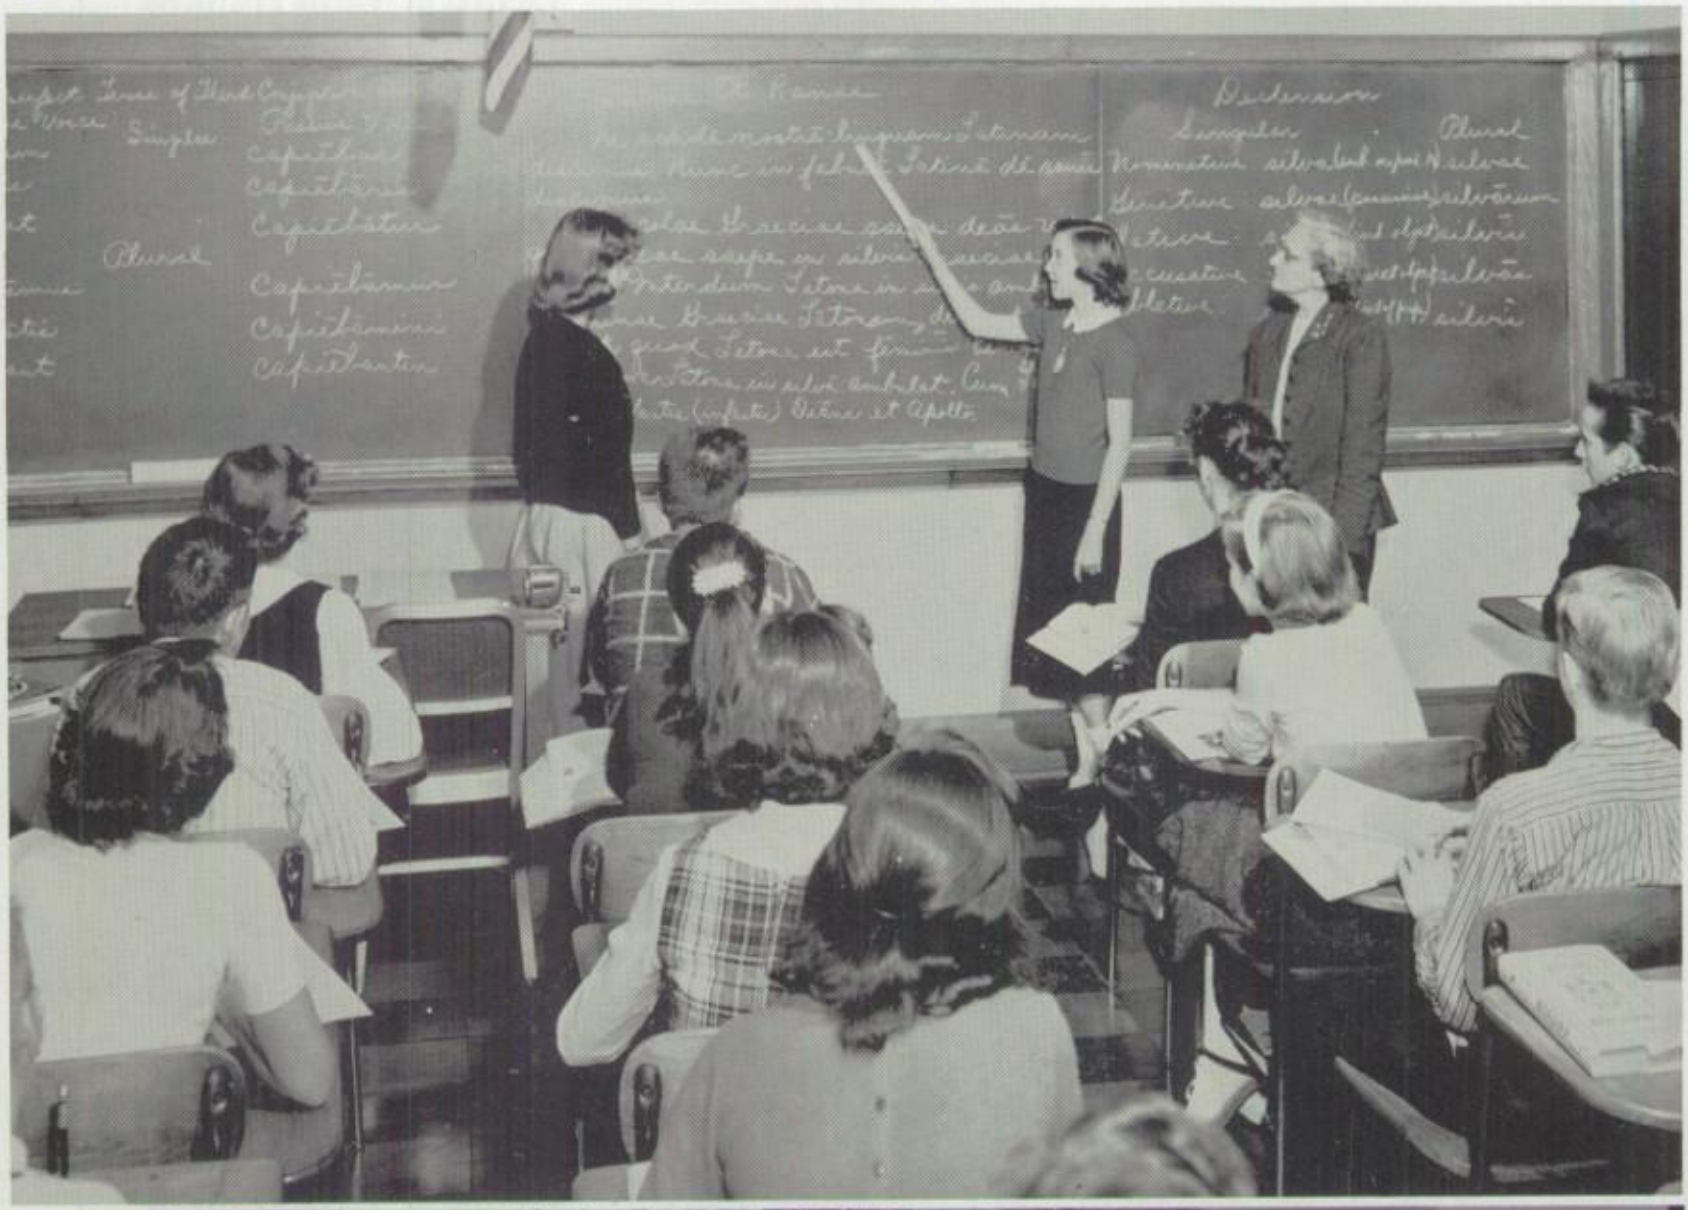
UN COURS DE FRANÇAIS

Have you ever noticed a few students walking through our halls speaking words you could not understand? They are probably first-year French students practicing on each other. Do not be dismayed if you do not recognize the language being spoken—chances are a real Frenchman wouldn't either. But do not judge them too hastily; after all, they are just beginning the study of French. Look up a few of the second-year students and notice the difference. They take a back seat for no French-speaking American, save the possible exception of Miss Litzinger, our French instructor.

Learning French is not such a difficult task as you may think. It is fun, or at least as much fun as any other class. But don't get the idea that studying French is all fun. Work—much hard work is a necessary part of the scheme. It also requires you to be alert every moment during the class because most of the conversation is carried on in French. Even so, for some of us, it seems to be one of the shortest periods of the school day.

This year there are a total of forty-two juniors and seniors taking French. Being the only modern foreign language offered in our school, and as it is helpful, and sometimes necessary to gain admission to college, it is a very worthwhile course to take in this modern fast-moving age. One never knows when one might end up in France!

Latin may be a dead language, but to Barbara Graham and Donna Galloway it is very much alive. This class of Latin students are discovering under the direction of instructor Lamberson that Latin plays a major role in being a great part of the frame work of the English language.

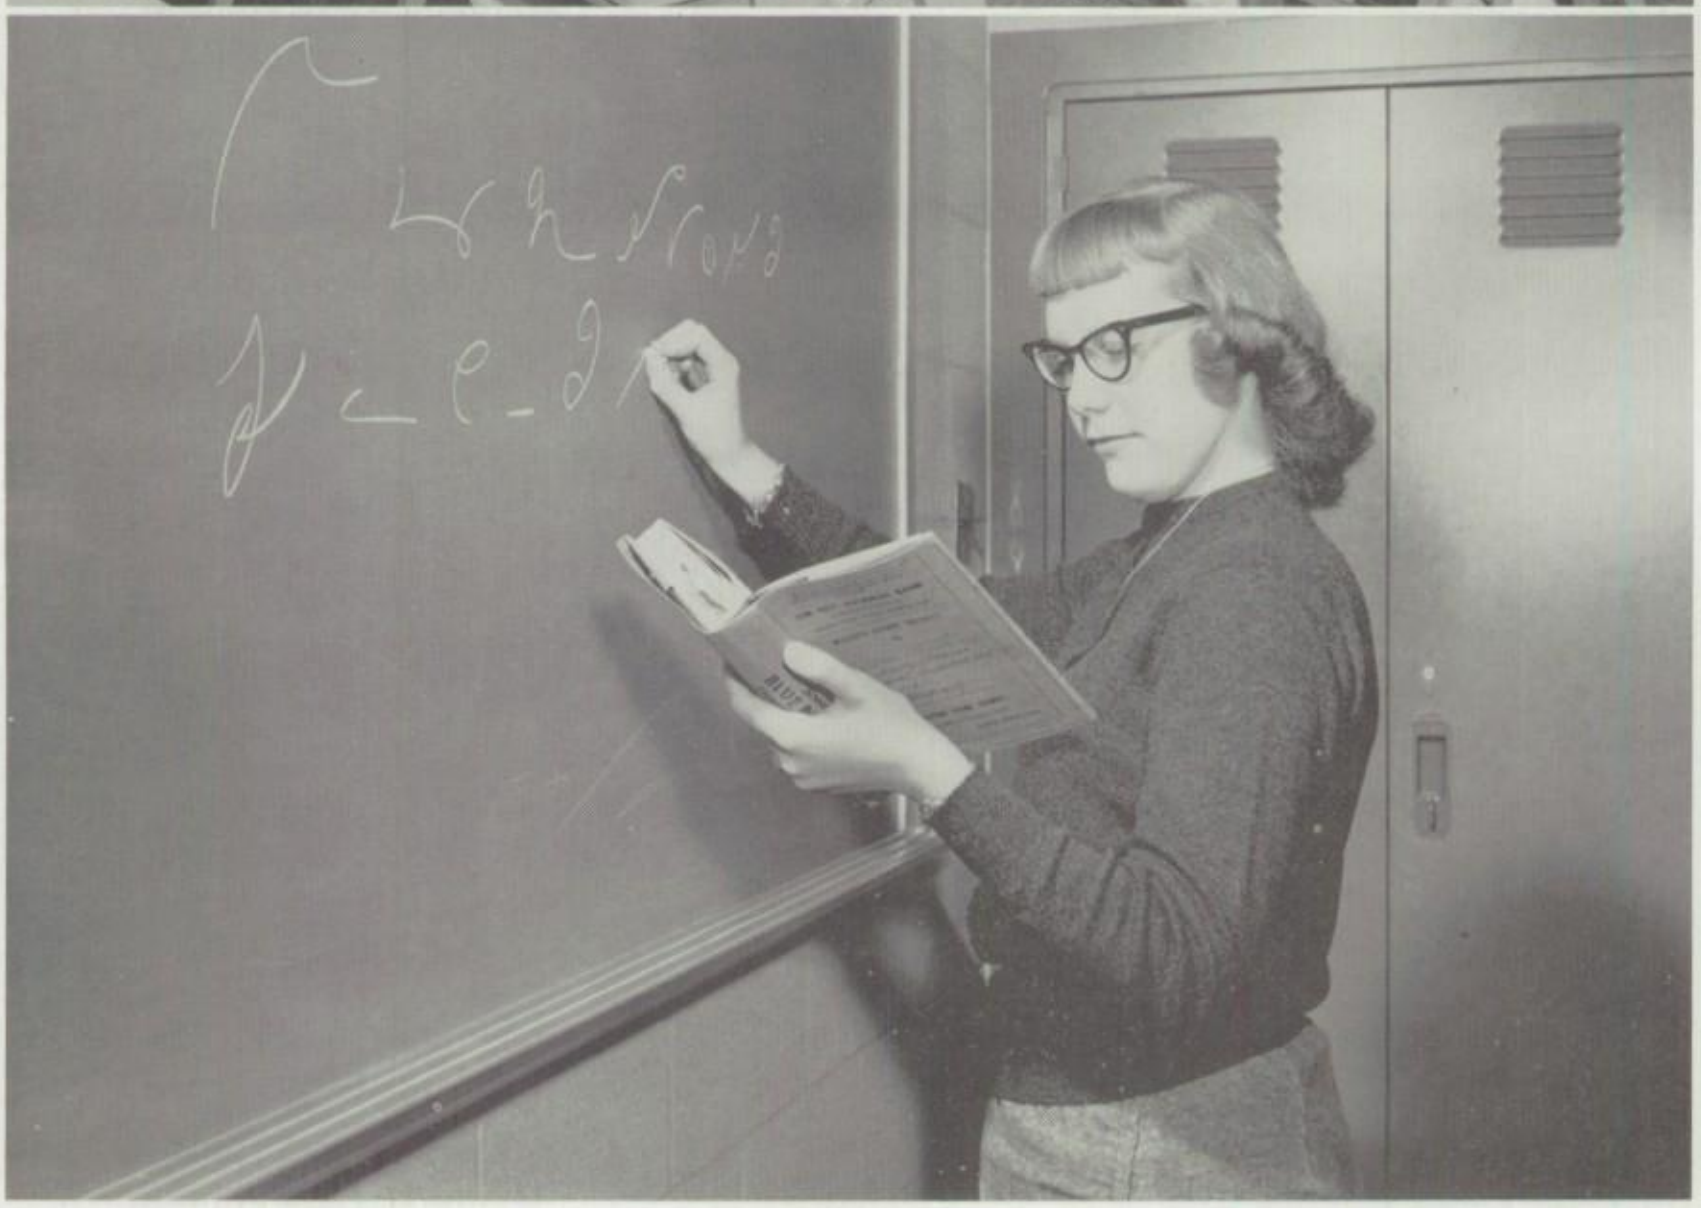


Richard Little and Laura Stiffler find these many Latin posters very helpful and interesting as they pursue the study of this fascinating ancient language.

Here we see a class in bookkeeping. Students are taught to organize a set of records for a business, record all business information and file records correctly.

This picture shows a class of juniors in the process of learning salesmanship. These commercial students learn all about selling and upon graduation should be very good salesmen.

The first task in learning to type is to learn the keyboard . . . that is the location of each key without looking for it. No student can become a good typist without first learning the touch system.



Here we see Sandra Covalt, one of our well-known commercial seniors, demonstrating her skill in writing shorthand. This student has mastered all the characters well. Now all she needs to do is to gain speed.

Here we see instructor Motto explaining the seemingly complex computing machine. The students soon "catch on" and very quickly become quite efficient operators of machines such as the one shown here.

The girls in the background are operating a high-speed mimeograph. The commercial department of B.H.S. is equipped with new, up-to-date, business machines of every type. Our graduates leave B.H.S. well prepared to operate machines of the most modern design.

OUR MOTHER TONGUE

Have you ever noticed students walking around with books on their heads? Well, if you have, you probably know it's the speech class. This is one of the many ways by which boys and girls in speech class learn correct poise. Here are a few other things students learn in speech class: learning to speak in front of a class without being self-conscious; learning to write a speech that will hold the attention of the class; learning to talk—and this includes all phases of speech which are used in everyday life, such as social situations, on the job, in leisure, and in the home. Only senior high students are eligible to take this course. The picture on the left is a demonstration of one of the many class exercises. The picture at the bottom shows students practicing control of voice for better everyday speech.

One key to good learning is excited interest. Here we see a group of students in an English class getting great fun out of using a tape recorder. The students take great interest in hearing their own voices coming back from the tape.

The English instructors in our high school take advantage of every medium possible to bring about a good learning experience. Here one instructor is making use of a hi-fi record player in an attempt to stimulate better thinking.

HISTORY IS THE STORY OF MAN

"To know nothing of the past is to understand little of the present and to have no conception of the future." History is a dynamic and a growing subject. There are too many people in the world who are unfamiliar with the past. It seems impossible to conceive how people will try to understand our times without a knowledge of the conditions which brought them about; it would seem equally impossible for those same people to make intelligent decisions for the future without some comprehension of the age in which we live. Too many of us exist only for the purpose of getting all we can out of life without ever trying to contribute anything toward a better life. The world can do much better at guessing the future if the people are well informed as to the past. One famous American said, "I have only the lamp of experience to light my future." Students in Bedford High School are extremely fortunate in being offered a very rich program of history. In the seventh grade they are introduced to ancient history; in the eighth grade they study elementary American history; in the ninth grade they are taught a splendid course in community, state and national civics; in the tenth grade they receive a very comprehensive course in world history; in the eleventh year they rceive an advanced course in American history; and in the twelfth year they are taught a very thorough course in problems of American Democracy. History, truly is the story of man.

Instructor Patterson looks on as his class in U. S. history enthusiastically studies a map of the United States. Perhaps another Alexander Hamilton may come from this group of students.

Two junior students study the bulletin board which may contain anything from a student-made cartoon to a reproduction of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Patterson's American history classes are always stimulating.

Here we see two art students carving linoleum blocks. This is a very interesting phase in the study of art. Students take strong interest in carving almost every conceivable form and then of course using them for printing blocks.

Students are subjected to a great variety of experiences in the art classes. It is said that one must love life to love art. Here we see in the forefront a student sculpturing a head from carving clay.

Instructor Wohnhas is shown here carefully watching every step of each student in his art class. Mr. Wohnhas is very proud of many very talented students he has been able to develop in his classes.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

Here we see two boys, John Conover and Ronald Sollenberger, building a self-feeder to be used on the farm of one of the boys.

Boys enrolled in our Vocational Agriculture course, can and do build many articles which are of great value to them in the business of farming.

Bedford High School is very fortunate in having one of the most modern equipped Vocational Agriculture shops to be found any place. Here we find tools and machinery of the most modern design, enabling the student to gain experience in making repairs to every conceivable type of farm machinery.

One of the most carefully organized departments in our high school is the department of vocational agriculture. The entire program is set up specifically for boys interested in farming and related agricultural occupations. The program is highly practical and very interesting. Important parts of the program are the farm shop work and the supervised farming program in which boys plan, do the work on, and keep records on, one or more animal or crop enterprises. Boys following this program may enter college if they have completed the necessary elective courses required for admission and if their scholastic average is satisfactory.

The Future Farmers of America, or "F.F.A." as it is commonly known, (see page 122) is the national organization of, by, and for boys studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools under the provisions of the National Vocational Education Acts. As an integral part of the program of vocational education in agriculture in the public school system of America, the F.F.A. has become well known. No national student organization enjoys greater freedom of self-government under adult counsel and guidance than the Future Farmers of America. Organized in November of 1928, it has served to motivate and vitalize the systematic instruction offered to students of vocational agriculture and to provide further training in farming-citizenship.

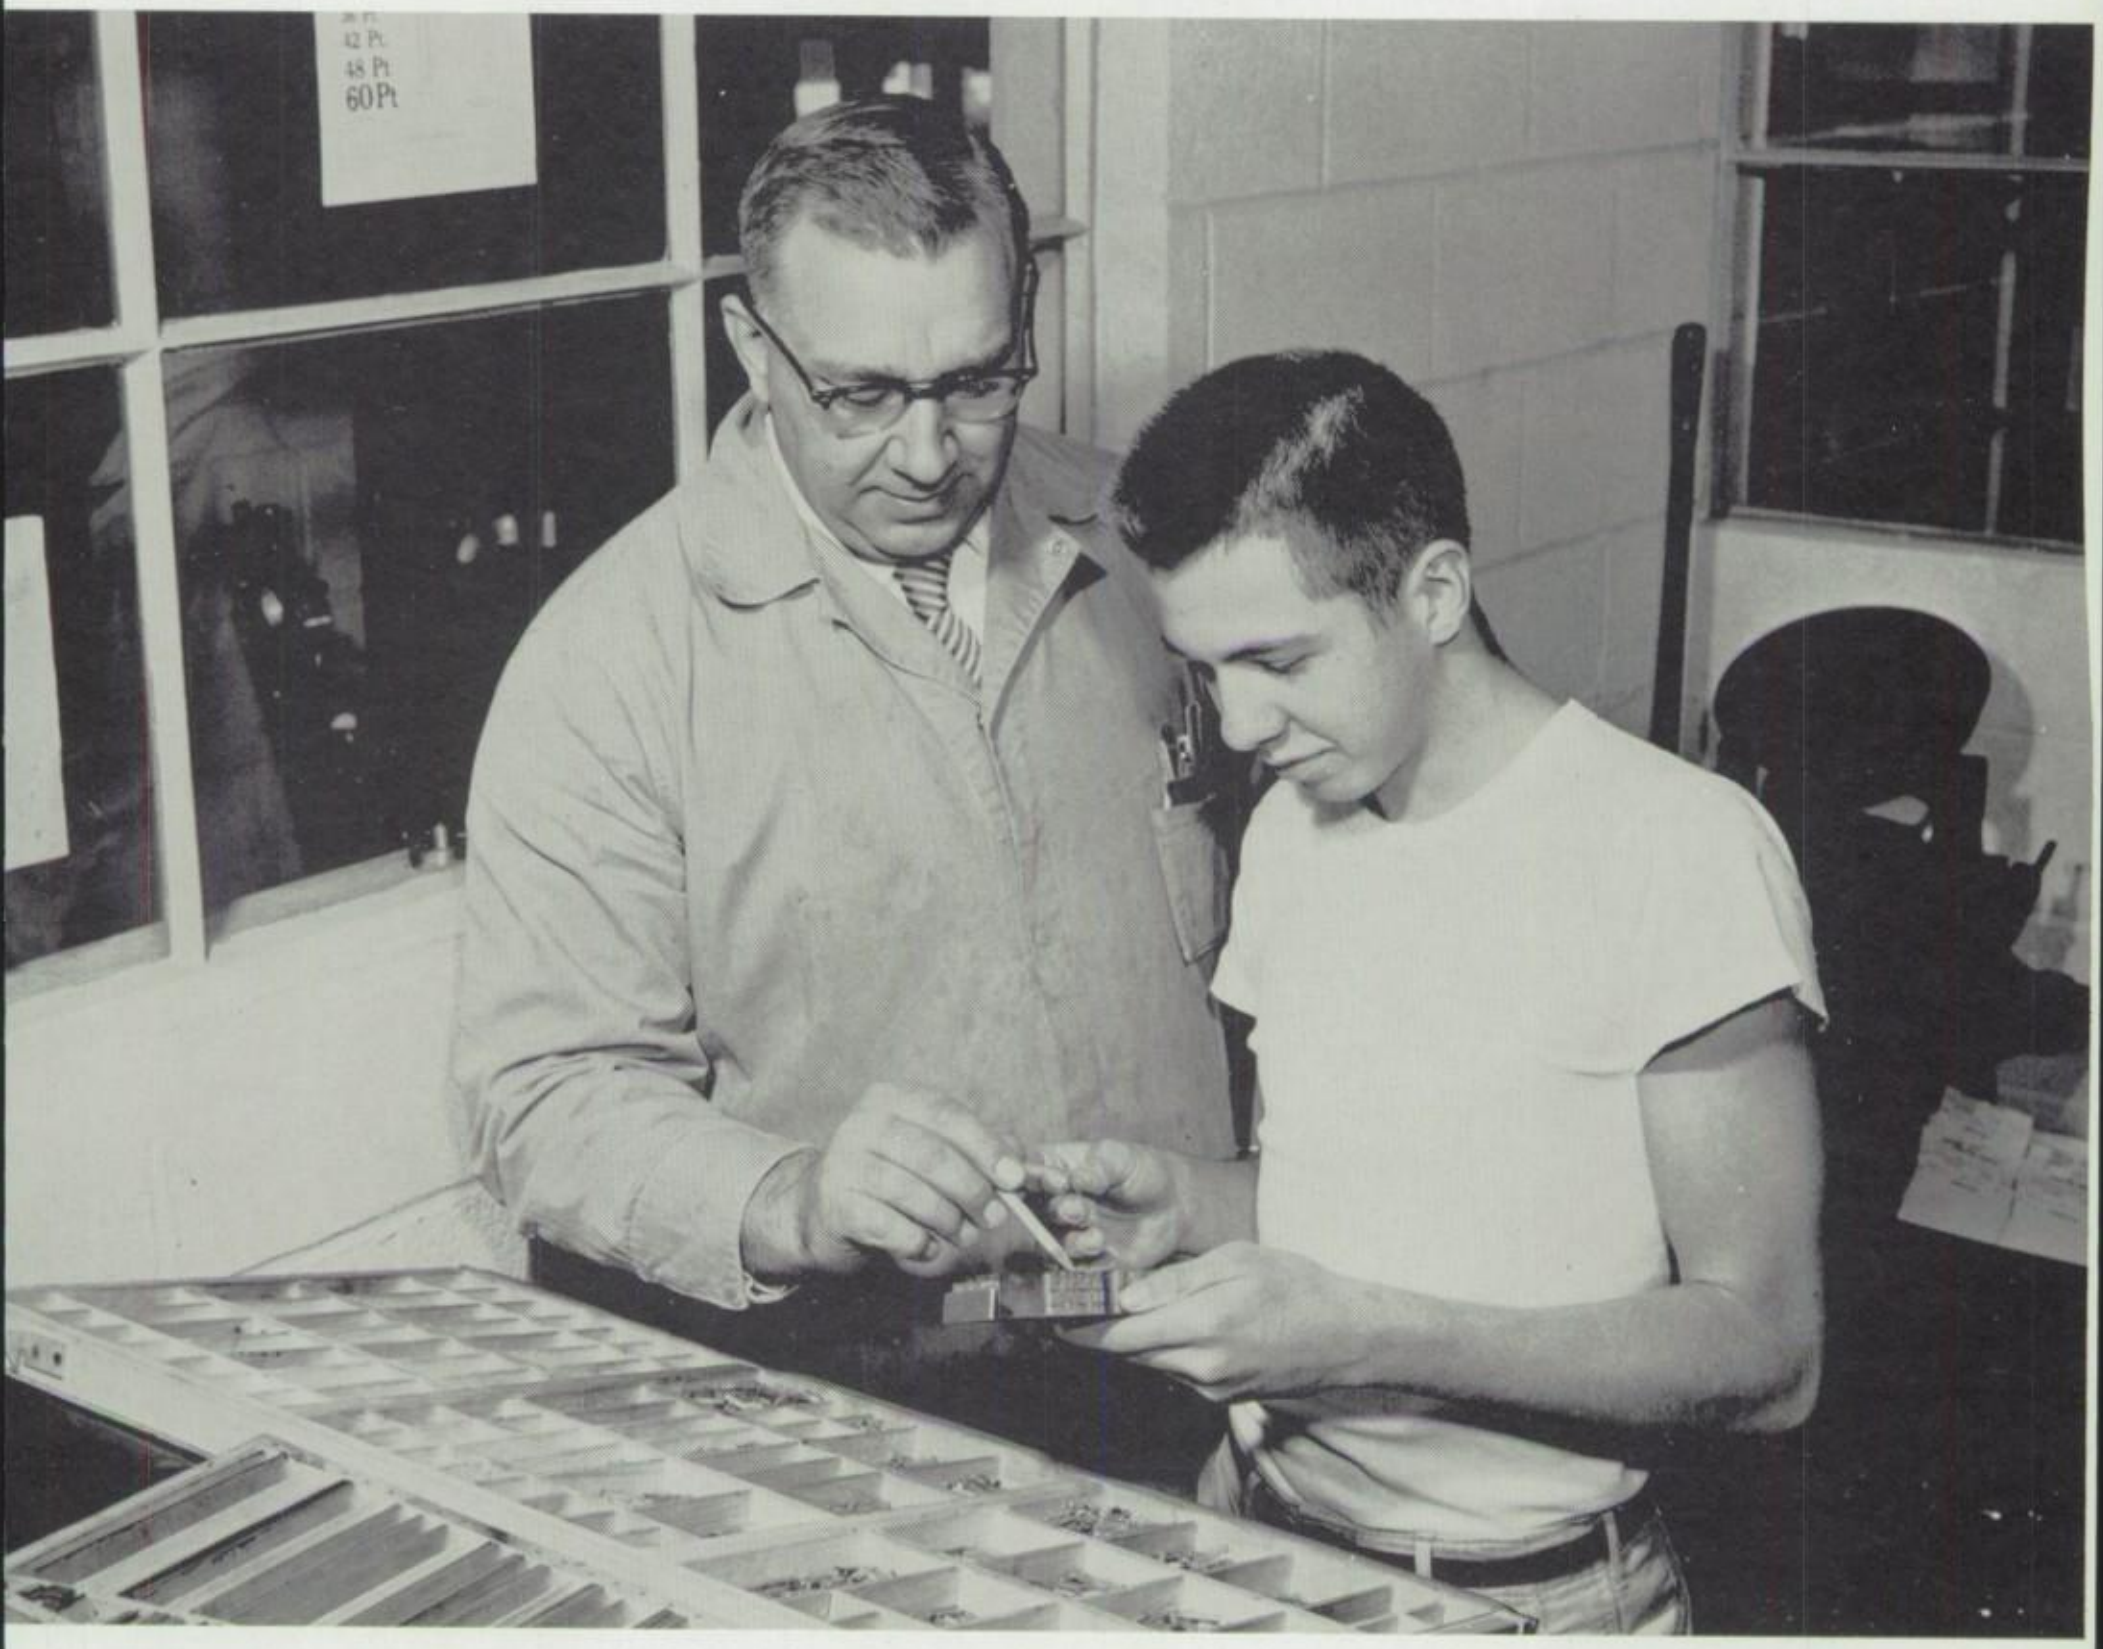
These boys are learning how to test milk to determine the percentage of butterfat it contains. This is just one of the many things taught to Vocational Agriculture boys which will help them to run their farms efficiently.

Dick Dunkle is taking a moisture test of corn. Before grain can safely be placed in a crib or ben, it must be dried down to a certain percentage of moisture. The machine shown enables one to determine the moisture quickly.

Classroom instruction is just one phase of the boys' training. The teacher explains the different phases and ways of farming. The field trips they take make the ideas clearer in the boys' minds. The agriculture classroom is an informal situation in that each boy is urged to express his views.

Farm machinery is another important phase of vocational agriculture. The boys are taught many skills which can be put to good use on their own farms. Special emphasis is placed upon the maintenance and care of farm machinery.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS



Instructor Smith explains a fundamental detail in printing to a student.

Industrial Arts is a popular subject in B.H.S., where the boys work "with their heads and their hands."

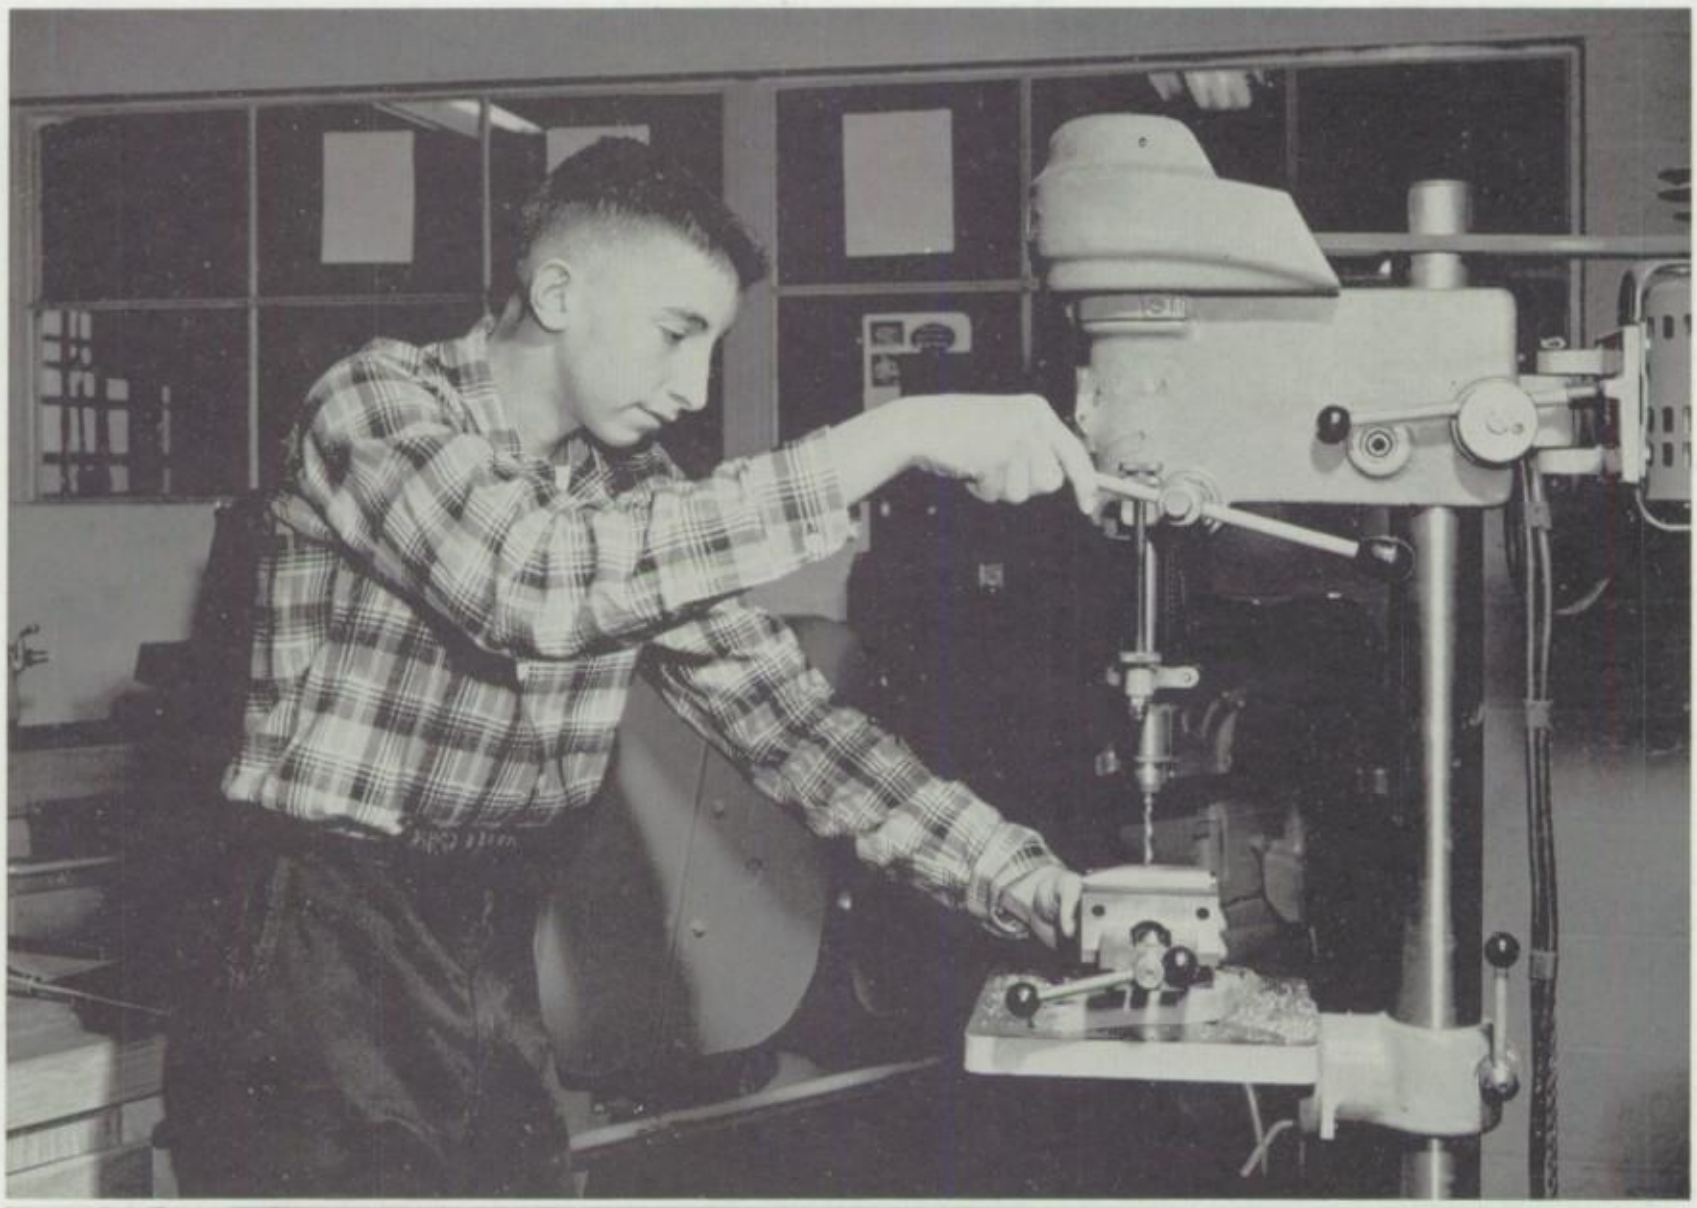
Industrial Arts in B.H.S. in offered to students in all six grades . . . mandatory by state law to grades 7, 8, and 9 . . . elective for 10, 11, and 12.

For Junior High students, the course is exploratory; each male student is given the basic knowledge of as many tools as possible . . . to expose him to many different kinds of material, such as plywood, masonite, all kinds of lumber, copper, tin, iron, plastic, and others. The purpose in this is to familiarize the student with processes and products used in industry, hoping he can find the area to which he is best adapted. During this three-year period, the student works with art metal, sheet metal, foundry, forge, electricity, plumbing, cabinet making, graphic arts, and mechanics. If by the end of the ninth grade, the student shows considerable aptitude in some particular field, he is encouraged to continue on with Industrial Arts during his Senior High School years. If he so chooses, he may now specialize in a particular area, and if he continues during his tenth, eleventh, and twelfth years, he may graduate with considerable proficiency in such fields as woodworking, printing, machine metal, foundry work, and automotive mechanics.

In this picture we see instructor Greaser explaining the many uses of a brace and bit. These boys are from the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades and their experience with tools has been very limited. Note the interested expressions on the faces of the lads.

Here is one of our older students, and having had considerable experience, is now working in advanced wood work. This student is almost ready to put the finishing touches to this beautiful tray. It is amazing how skilled some of our students become.

The industrial arts department in Bedford High School is well equipped with excellent tools of the most modern design. This lad has become quite proficient in the use of the power drill press.



This boy, properly dressed for safety, is making rapid progress in becoming a skilled operator of a steel lathe. Those with unusual aptitude in this area of learning develop rapidly under expert instruction.

Instructor Simpson is explaining to junior high school boy how to properly care for a cutting tool. The tools in the industrial arts department of B.H.S. are of high quality and the students are taught to treat them with respect.

The student in this picture is demonstrating his skill in using the soldering iron. The soldering furnace shown is a recent addition to the fine equipment found in the industrial arts department.

LIBRARY

The library, in addition to being the largest room in B.H.S., is also one of the busiest and most popular places in our school. Students and teachers came to the library to search for materials to satisfy their personal or group interests. If a tape recorder could be set up here for just a few minutes, it would record such interesting bits of conversation as: "May I keep this book another week? My father is reading it." "In what magazine will I find a good article on Elvis Presley?" "We want to reveal startling history facts as a part of our history assembly. Where can I find a book containing deep dark secrets of history?" Such are typical requests that occur daily in this active school library.

In our library there are nearly 5,000 books, a variety of newspapers and magazines, and college catalogues from almost every college in Pennsylvania and from many of the larger colleges throughout the United States.

This year, a pocket book library has been added to supplement the regular library collection. This addition has proven to be quite popular.

There are seats available for ninety-two people plus a conference room which seats four people. New plastic-top tables add to the appearance of the library.

Miss Harriet Sexton, with help from the library aids, is in complete charge of the library. Her efforts have made it the pleasant place it is.

Our library is a wonderful place! Let's use it!

Here we see Joyce Dishong, a junior, doing just what the sign directs her to do. After learning to properly use the card catalog, a student can save much valuable time in locating library materials.

Bedford High's library is well stocked with periodicals and newspapers of a wide variety and covering almost every conceivable interest. These materials are extensively used by students and faculty alike.

Before the students may draw new books from the library, there is much behind-the-scenes work to be done. The girls shown here are pasting base cardpockets in the books. Then the library aids will place the books on their proper shelves where students may easily find them.

Shown to the left is a library aid performing one of the more popular library tasks . . . checking books in and out for the students. Students may take books out of the library for two weeks at a time.

CAFETERIA

This is MRS. CATHERINE CESSNA, Superintendent of our Cafeteria. She is dearly loved and highly respected by students and teachers alike. Mrs. Cessna has had many years' experience in this work, having served as our superintendent of cafeteria workers before we moved into our new quarters. Because of her understanding heart and a true knowledge of what growing boys and girls love to eat, she has endeared herself to all of us.

PERSONNEL OF THE CAFETERIA

FIRST ROW: Mrs. Catherin King, Exchequer; Mrs. Olive Bankes, Mrs. Aldene Bahm, Mrs. Lillian Zembower, Mrs. Ethel Naugle.

SECOND ROW: Mrs. Margaret Oliver, Mrs. Sarah Anderson, Mrs. Irma Davidson, Mrs. Florence Foor.

THIRD ROW: Mrs. Grace Heming, Mr. Reese Zembower, Mrs. Catherine Cessna, Superintendent.

THE SERVING LINE

Almost eleven hundred children and about fifty faculty members pass through this line each school day. The lunch schedule is arranged in three shifts and the rooms rotate so that each room gets an opportunity to be first in the serving line about once each seven days.

This is Mrs. Catherine King, the exchequer of the cafeteria. A large part of her work is to keep an accurate account of all lunch tokens and money going in and out of the cafeteria. The state is very strict in knowing just how many lunches are served each day.

Mrs. King lives at 500 East Pitt Street in Bedford with her eleven-year-old son, Sammy.

Here we see a hungry student exchanging a quarter for a lunch token which he will exchange for a well-balanced hot meal. This student is only one of more than a thousand who pass through this line each day. Our lunch period is divided into three shifts of about thirty minutes each.

Our faculty members, too, must take on nourishment from time to time. Here we see our supervising principal together with a half dozen of his staff members consuming lunch in the faculty dining room of our cafeteria. This room insures the faculty a reasonably quiet place to eat away from the chatter of students.

SECOND ROW: Dolores Jean Creighton, Jenny Myers, Lois McDaniel, Annabelle Claycomb, Bonnie Levar, Eilene Dively, Lynn Whitfield, Janet Oster, Sandra Weaver.

THIRD ROW: Carol Raugh, Mary Lou Imler, Elaine Dively, Delores Wyles, Donna Drasher, Julia Howsare, Wanda Holler, Sandra Covalt, Louise Evans, Nancy Ohler.

FOURTH ROW: Doris Wyles, Ella Jean Hudicka, Rachael Stuckey, Maxine Gail Smith, Ruth Reed, Carol Fisher, Judy Livengood, Dauna Arnold, Shirley Ford.

HI-Y (Right)

THIRD ROW: Charles Bockhouse, Richard Fisher, Bill Shaffer.

NATIONAL JUNIOR HONOR SOCIETY

SECOND ROW: Donny Corle, Peggy Defibaugh, Joyce Reeder, Nancy Pennell, Elizabeth Zembower, Tom Burtnett, Jean Shoemaker.

FOURTH ROW: Shirley Wigfield, Nancy Streett, Alice Morris, Dorothy Howsare, Natalie Jess, Mary Bennett, Carolyn Barnhart.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY (Below)

FIRST ROW: Dorothy Conover, Mary Jane Ohler, Jo Ann Maffucci, Rosemary Bachelor, Sandra Covalt, Judith Oravetz.

SECOND ROW: Alice Farabaugh, Ruth Ann Heacock, Jacob Baker, Ronald Baker, James Whisker.

THIRD ROW: John Grigg, Jesse Koontz, John Wright, Margot Janssens, Terrance Veach.

STUDENT COUNCIL (Right)

FIRST ROW: John Sproat, Lester Myers, Ruthanne Ibarra, Janet Phillips, Gary Martz, Donna Brooks, Trudy L. Vensel, Lois Baker, Mike Fungaroli, Ned Martz.

SECOND ROW: Miss Winona Garbrick, Sponsor of the Junior High Division; Jean Bowser, Linda Koontz, Suzanne Mardorff, Clay Easter, Carole Kauffman, Wanda Wareham, Terry Ebersole, Carolyn Amick, Bernetta Farabaugh, Mr. John Heacock, Sponsor of the Senior High Division.

THIRD ROW: Donna James, Peggy Howsare, Mary Palmer, Ann Townsend, Joyce Will, Patricia Diehl, Nancy Patterson, Barbara Morgart, Judy Howsare, Sue Ann Diehl.

FIFTH ROW: Georgia Como, Douglas Reese, Jacob Baker, Kathy Wright, Mike Smouse, John Dunbar, Joe Gentilman, Warren Brockelman IV, Terry Arnold, Alice Farabaugh.

Alice Farabaugh is President of the Student Council. Alice is very softspoken, but when she calls the meeting to order the first and third Monday of each month, every member gives her his undivided attention. The Council is made up of representatives from each homeroom in the building and at each meeting new ideas are presented for the betterment of our school. The Council sponsors such events as College Night, the Pigskin Hop, and the annual Christmas dance. It also sponsors the Blood Mobile and the March of Dimes.

THIRD ROW: Richard Snyder, Harvey Hillegass, Cletis Beegle.

One of the interesting clubs is the Math Club. The club is sponsored by Mr. John Heacock, instructor in the mathematics department. The club is made up of junior and senior boys and girls who are interested in the mystery of higher mathematics. The aim is to venture deeper into the realm of mathematics and to make clear its many secrets. The members of the club are presently making a nine-foot slide rule for rapid calculation of large numbers.

Pennsylvania has about ninty chapters of F.B.L.A. Bedford High School has an active chapter sponsored by Mr. Leonard Motto. Only students in the eleventh and twelfth years, taking the Commercial Course are eligible for membership in the club. The club makes every effort to learn all there is to be known about the various businesses in our community. The activities of the club this year consisted of entering a prize-winning float in the Halloween parade, sponsored a Care Drive, and one square dance. Representatives from our chapter are sent to the Regional and State Conventions. At the last Regional Convention, two Bedford members were elected to Regional offices.

The junior high girls shown in these two pictures are learning how to develop their bodies and how to keep healthy. This is extremely important to girls just entering the adolescent period. In addition to learning the fundamental rules of health they also learn how to participate in organized sports. Many girls say they prize their gym club experiences above all others. Many of them say it was here they first learned how to give and take.

FIRST ROW: Stanley Manges, John Imler, Donald Geisler, Stanley Dively, Charles Allen Bowen, Charles DeMoss, David Scritchfield, Jack Diehl.

THIRD ROW: Ronald May, Charles Karns, Clifford Smith, Ronald Logsdon, Timothy Henderson, Wayne Sarver.

FIRST ROW: Tim Johnson, Stephen L. Shriner, Jeffrey Jewell, Joe Gardner, Richard Shoap, Arthur Burtnett, George Zubrod.

THIRD ROW: Mac Greenland, Tim Taylor, Jim Rush, Charles Koontz, John Foor.

These junior high boys try to "find" themselves in this club. If there is anything in the book these boys don't try to make, we don't know what it is. It is a real part of anyone's education just to examine the hundreds of models these boys have designed. Apparently each boy attempts to out-do the other in modeling something new, strange or different. By the end of another decade, some of these boys will be creating new devices to make this life easier and more comfortable for all of us.

THIRD ROW: Julia Ann Howsare, Easter Riggs, Shirley Trail, Nancy Cessna, Joan Smith, Ruth Ely, Mary Exline, Donna Heming.

USHERS

FIRST ROW: Karen Green, Ann Townsend, Margie Weaverling, Joyce Will, Pat Will, Mary Wareham.

THIRD ROW: Jane Townsend, Susan Baker, Carol Beaver, Kay Klein, Alice Farabaugh, Zona Miller.

The main function of the Ushers' Club is to be present at all school functions open to the public in order to see that the people are properly seated and to maintain a semblance of order throughout the program. The group devotes some time to selling candy at various sports events, to handing out programs at school assemblies, and to render their services wherever or whenever their talents may be needed. The group is supervised by Miss Mary Learish, an instructor in the English department, and we believe most people will agree the group does render an almost indispensable service to the school.

GUIDES

Thirty-nine boys were chosen at the beginning of the year to serve as guides in an attempt to reduce the traffic congestion in B.H.S. Each boy has a definite place in the building where he is expected to be during the change of classes.

FIRST ROW: John Drenning, Jacob Baker, William Stotler, Warren Brockelman, Ronald Baker, Robert Harding, Eugene Weaverling, Clarence Anderson, John Boyd.

THIRD ROW: Bill Shaffer, John May, Patrick Davidson, Ronald Judy, Ed Creps, Jeff Pyle, Richard Snyder, D. Ray Evans.

FUTURE NURSES

FIRST ROW: Mary Dibert, Phillis Jean Diehl, Shelby Waugerman, Annabelle Claycomb.

SECOND ROW: Ann Townsend, Ann Shaffer, Mary Beegle, Nancy Diehl, Bonnie Levar.

THIRD ROW: Julia Howsare, Carol Ebersole, Colleen Risbon, Maxine Gail Smith.

Each spring, at graduation time, a considerable number of our girls apply for entrance to schools of nursing. After three years' training, many of these girls return to the Bedford area and are employed by our own modern hospital.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

FIRST ROW: Bonnie Diehl, Frances Howsare, Anna Leppert, Nancy Stiffler, Ruth Ann Howsare, Dorothy Stiffler.

SECOND ROW: Annabelle Claycomb, Mary Biddle, Sandra Imler, Leota Clark, Marian O'Brien, Phillis Moorehead, Mildred Whetstone.

THIRD ROW: Sandra Ferguson, Doris Wyles, Doris Price, Evelyn Tew, Delores Jean Wyles, Kathryn Shannon.

RIFLE CLUB

We aim to shoot straight.

FIRST ROW: Jane Hanger, Roger Ickes, Linda Kauffman, Dean Huntsman, Rosy Reiley, Betty Feight, Jeannie Diehl, Lena Koontz.

The object of this club is to teach the members to shoot a rifle correctly and safely. The group belongs to the National Rifle Association.

ARCHERY CLUB

This ancient art is fascinating.

FIRST ROW: Carol Shaffer, Jeannie Diehl, Roger Ickes, Judy Howsare, Ann Townsend, Jane Hanger, Lena Koontz, Mr. Edward Clark, Sponsor.

SECOND ROW: Barbara Mostoller, Shirley Burkett, Carolyn Weaver, Linda Kauffman, Eve Hershberger, Ethel Layton.

The Archery Club is a group of forty senior high students interested in shooting the bow. This sport teaches one marksmanship and coordination.

CAFETERIA AIDS

FIRST ROW: Dorothy Stiffler, Jane Shaffer, Blanch Holler, Diane Baker, Mildred Whetstone, Annabelle Claycomb, Bonnie Miller, John Boyd.

SECOND ROW: Allen R. Smith, William Stotler, Roberta Arnold, JoAnne Berry, Glenn Bowser, Gemma Braman, Beverly Salesberry.

THIRD ROW: Bill Shaffer, Mike Kilcoin, Patrick Davidson, Michael Smith, Terry Semanek, Joe Gentilman.

The cafeteria aids serve on a voluntary basis and it is through their help that our cafeteria runs so smoothly. The aids sell and take tickets and do many other tasks.

SENIOR HIGH MODEL BUILDERS

FIRST ROW: Joseph Clapper, Charles Melius, David Sarver, Mr. Reginald Greaser, Sponsor.

SECOND ROW: William Stern, Glenn Bowser, Charles Fungaroli, Charles Dively.

THIRD ROW: Ronald Judy, Alan Carnes, Melvin Huston.

The model builders are learning the fundamentals of aerodynamics. The group builds all kinds of model airplanes that really fly. The boys also acquire the knowledge of how to read blueprints. This is a highly educational and interesting club.

FIRST AID CLUB

SECOND ROW: Shelby Waugerman, Judy James, Carol Stephens, Nancy Ann Diehl, Linda Livengood, Annabelle Claycomb.

THIRD ROW: Kathy Anderson, Ruth Reed, Roberta Arnold, Gemma Braman, Dixie Defibaugh.

The aim of the First Aid Club is to teach people what to do in case of an accident until a physician arrives. Those who complete one year in this club may receive a standard certificate from the Red Cross. An advanced certificate is given for two years' work.

TRAVEL CLUB

FIRST ROW: Bonnie Diehl, Patricia Clark, Elsie Nave, Mrs. Louise Smoke, Sponsor.

SECOND ROW: Karen Stahl, Pat Feight, Richard Shoap.

Have you ever tried to travel without leaving the room? The members of the Travel Club do just that. The seventh and eighth grade pupils who belong to this club travel all over the world, vicariously. They, and their sponsor, Mrs. Smoke, write to many states and foreign countries to obtain literature about a particular place. Movies of interesting places are also shown at their club meetings.

PHOTOGRAPHIC CLUB

SECOND ROW: Marge Hudicka, Joyce Shaffer, Peggy Bussard, Eddie Over, Pauline Morgret, Margie Frear, JoAnn Maffucci.

THIRD ROW: Bill Shaffer, Terry Semanek, Alan Carnes, Mike Peters, Harvey Hillegass, Ronald Baker.

HOME MECHANICS CLUB

FIRST ROW: Aldine Wagoner, Saundra Beegle, Anna Leppert.

SECOND ROW: Blanch Holler, Mary Gibson, Leotta Mae Clark, Orpha Albright.

THE ECHO STAFF

FIRST ROW: Gloria L. Cornelius Heltzel, Janet Oster, Mary Lou Imler, Joyce Marie Dishong, Lena Theodosia Koontz.
SECOND ROW: Jenny Myers, Sara Ann Koontz, Ella Jean Hudicka, Elaine Marie Dively.
THIRD ROW: Julia Ann Howsare, Edith Pauline Morgret, Shelba Jane Valentine. (Not shown) Richard Wayne Williams, David Reneric Smith, Mr. E. A. Haga, Director; and Roberta Arnold.

This year, under a new plan, our yearbook was prepared by a class of fifteen students studying advanced journalism. If the finished product fails to measure up to your full expectation, please bear in mind that at the beginning of the school year, every member in this class was totally inexperienced in yearbook construction. By being attentive, the average student can, from a dozen lectures, absorb fairly well the fundamentals involved in the preparation of a yearbook. But when he attempts to apply those principles, he encounters innumerable difficulties. Every member of our staff will testify to that fact. There seems to be no substitute for practice and experience in this work. To be able to successfully coordinate all the phases of yearbook construction, one must expect to expend countless hours of time, effort, and patience.

MAJORETTES

Judy Baum Livengood, Elizabeth Susan Baker, Nancy Ann Diehl, Mary E. Wareham, Head Majorette; Ruth Diane Baker, Linda Lee Livengood, Georgia Maxine Como.

Everyone in the stands becomes silent at the sharp sound of the drums—smiles appear on the faces, and joy leaps in one's heart as our Blue and White Band moves briskly past, led by drum majorette, Mary Wareham and six snappy majorettes.

Faithful and constant practice has placed these girls in front of our band. To be a majorette, one must play a musical instrument, then join the twirling club and develop the skill of twirling. The majorettes are selected by the director of the band, Mr. Hunsicker. The head majorette is elected from this group by the members of the band, using secret ballot. Each majorette, if she so desires, may make up a special routine and twirl it before the band before the election takes place.

Perhaps the most memorable day in a majorette's life is Band Day at Penn State. It is a big thrill to lead our band past thousands of people crowding the streets of University Park and twirl a routine on Beaver Field. The role of a majorette is not any easy one when we consider the hundreds of hours of necessary practice, but the fruits justify the effort.

CHEERLEADERS

Lena Theodosia Koontz, Donna O'Neal, Beverly Joyce Salsberry, Rose Marie Proko, Zona Jean Miller, Joyce Kathryn Will.

The Cheerleaders consist of a group of six girls chosen by the student body near the end of each school year. This year's squad consists of one sophomore, four juniors, and one senior. The group elects its own captain; this year the group elected a senior, Joyce Will, for its Captain. The girls practice old cheers and develop new ones during the three summer months, and then make their debut at the annual bonfire and snake-dance which they sponsor early in the fall. The main objective of the Cheerleaders is to create and maintain high school spirit. They spend much time in developing new ideas for pep assemblies and in devising ways and means of getting the students to support the athletic teams by being present at all athletic contests. The new uniforms which the girls wore during the basketball and wrestling season, were partially paid for by the girls themselves with money earned from selling pennants and bison buttons during the lunch periods.

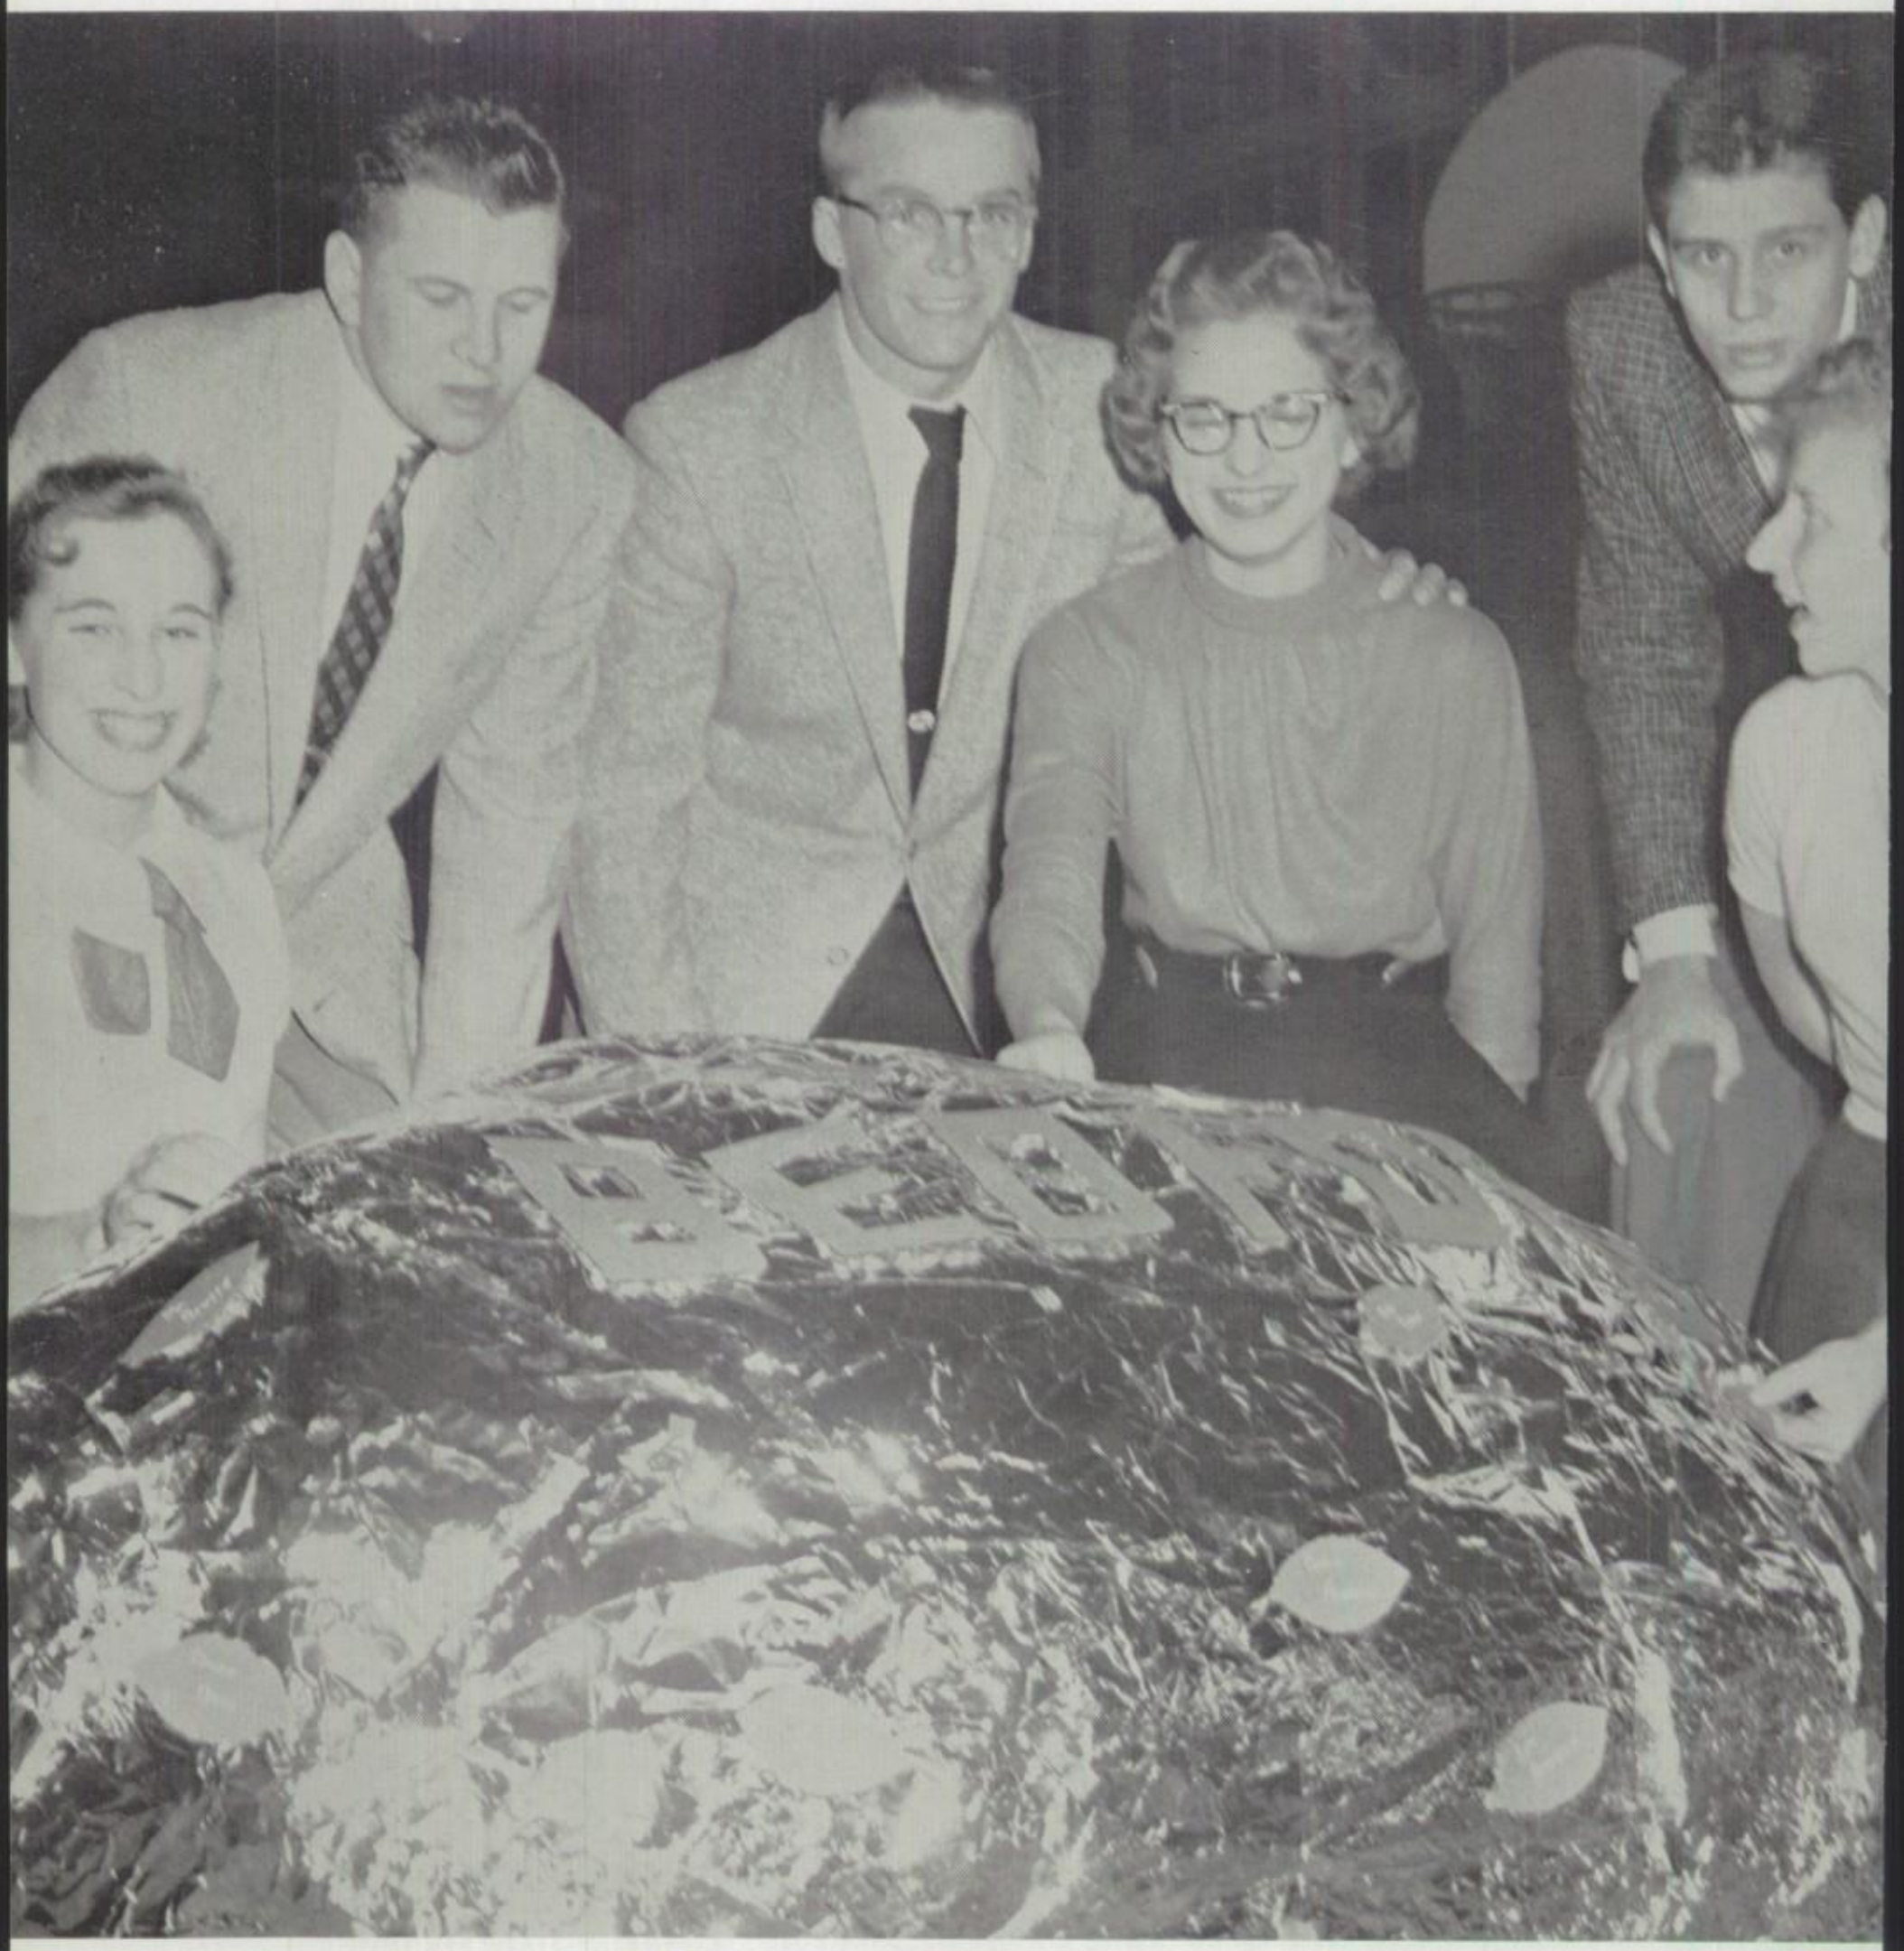
The Cheerleaders are indeed an energetic group and certainly do deserve our whole-hearted support.

CUSTODIANS OF B.H.S.

FIRST ROW: Raymond E. Harris, Luther Rose, Chief Custodian.
SECOND ROW: Bertha Drenning, Norman Miller, Helen Lafferty.
THIRD ROW: Leroy D. Blackburn, Dorothy Keller, Geraldine Lafferty, Emery Hall.

May God bless our custodians. Any student who fails to do everything in his power to make the work lighter for these wonderful people is not worthy to be a student in our high school.

PIG SKIN HOP



For the past several years, the Student Council of our high school has sponsored what is traditionally known as the Pig Skin Hop. This informal dance is held each year shortly following the close of the football season and its chief purpose is to honor and to show our appreciation to each member of our football team for the services rendered our school. It requires a great deal of energy, time, and determination for any boy to stick with the team till the close of the season and we feel that he richly deserves the honor and recognition which the Pig Skin Hop bestows upon him. The effort which goes into the preparation for the Pig Skin Hop is not keyed in any way to the success of the team. Just as much effort and expense go into the dance honoring a losing team as for a winning team.

PIG SKIN HOP

One feature of the annual Pig Skin Hop is the crowning of a football queen. The queen is chosen by the members of the football team from a small list of candidates elected by members of the senior class. The only requirement is that the queen must be a member of the senior class. An attempt is made to keep the identity of the queen secret till the night of the hop, but more often than not, the secret leaks out well ahead of time. The candidates receiving the second and third highest number of votes for queen are declared to be attendants to the queen. Boys attending the hop consider it quite an honor to be granted a dance with the queen or either of her attendants. In the picture above, we see the new queen, Diane Baker, receiving a "busser" from the captain of the football team, Richard Koontz.

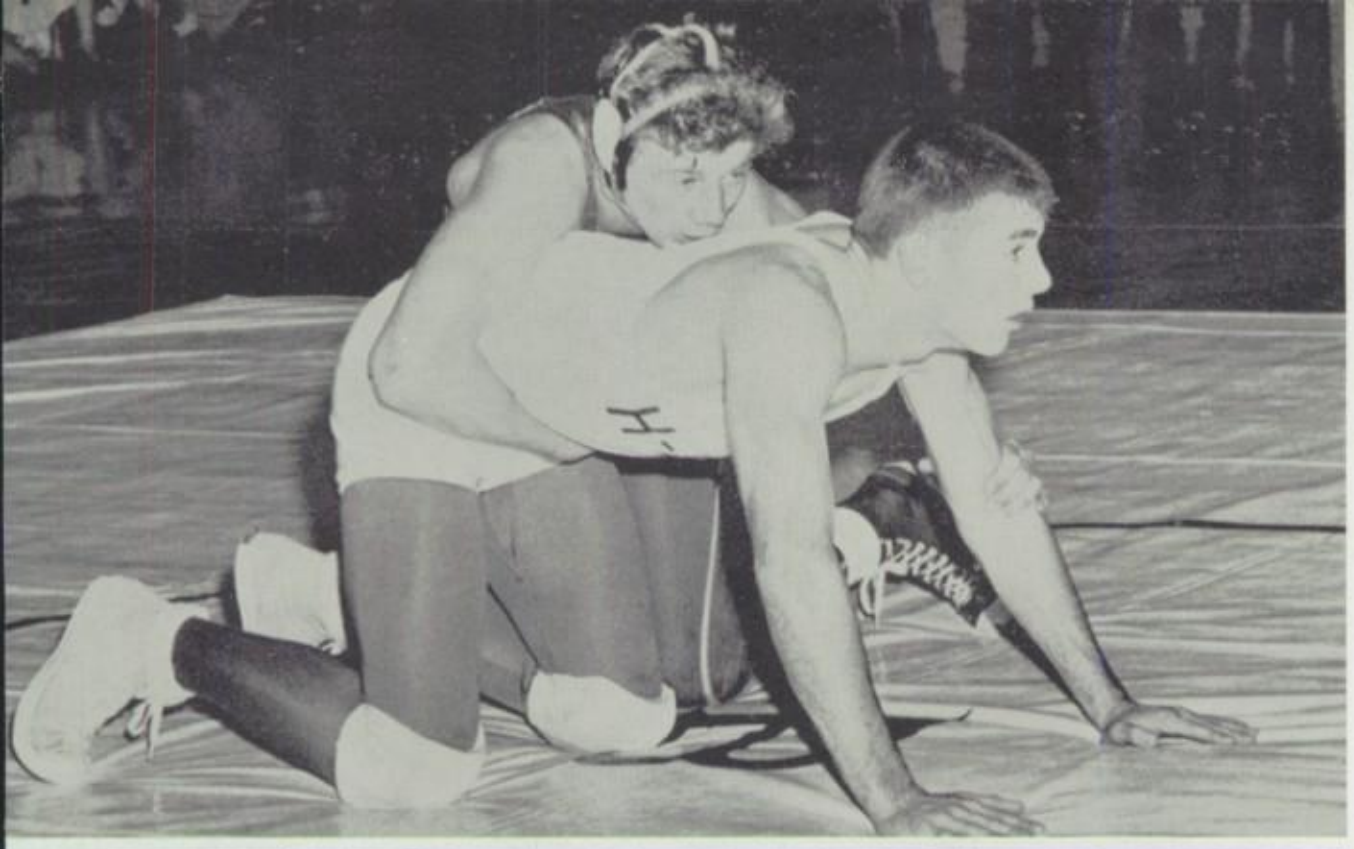
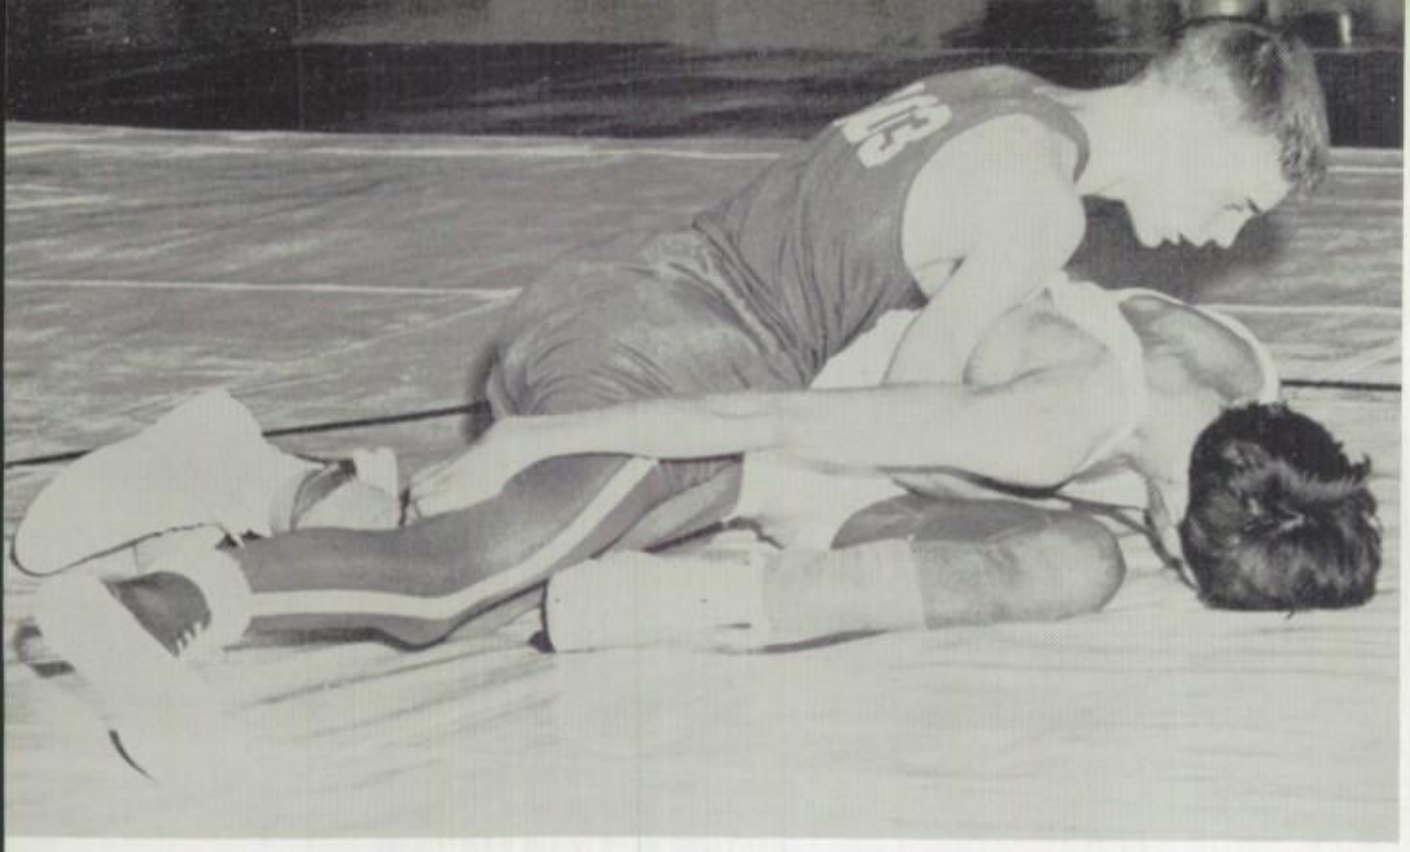
RALPH SNYDER



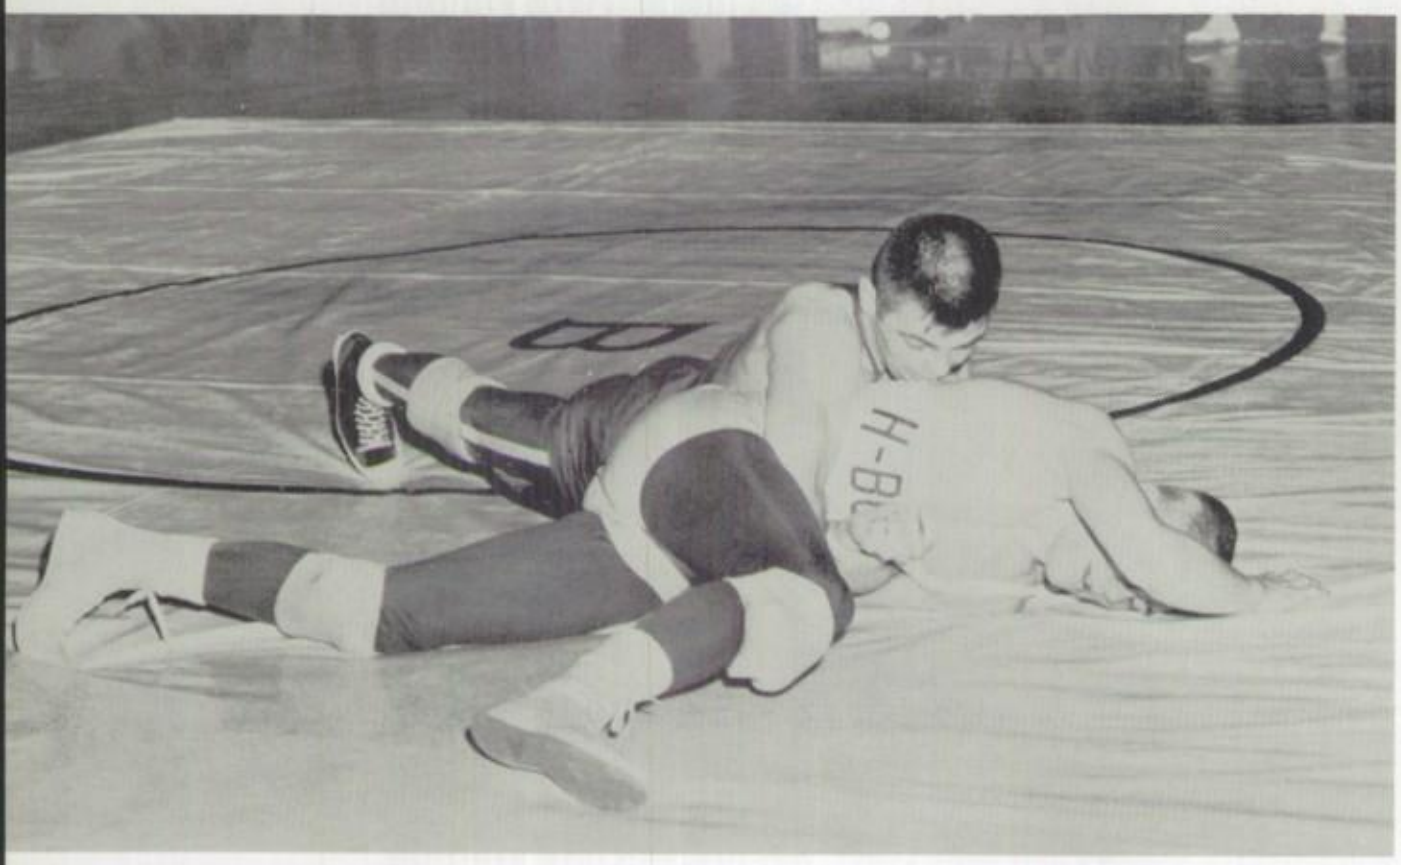
Jim Snyder, who has wrestled nearly all captains, loses by a very close call.

Reliable Ivan Steele, reverses and defeats one of Hollidaysburg's best wrestlers.

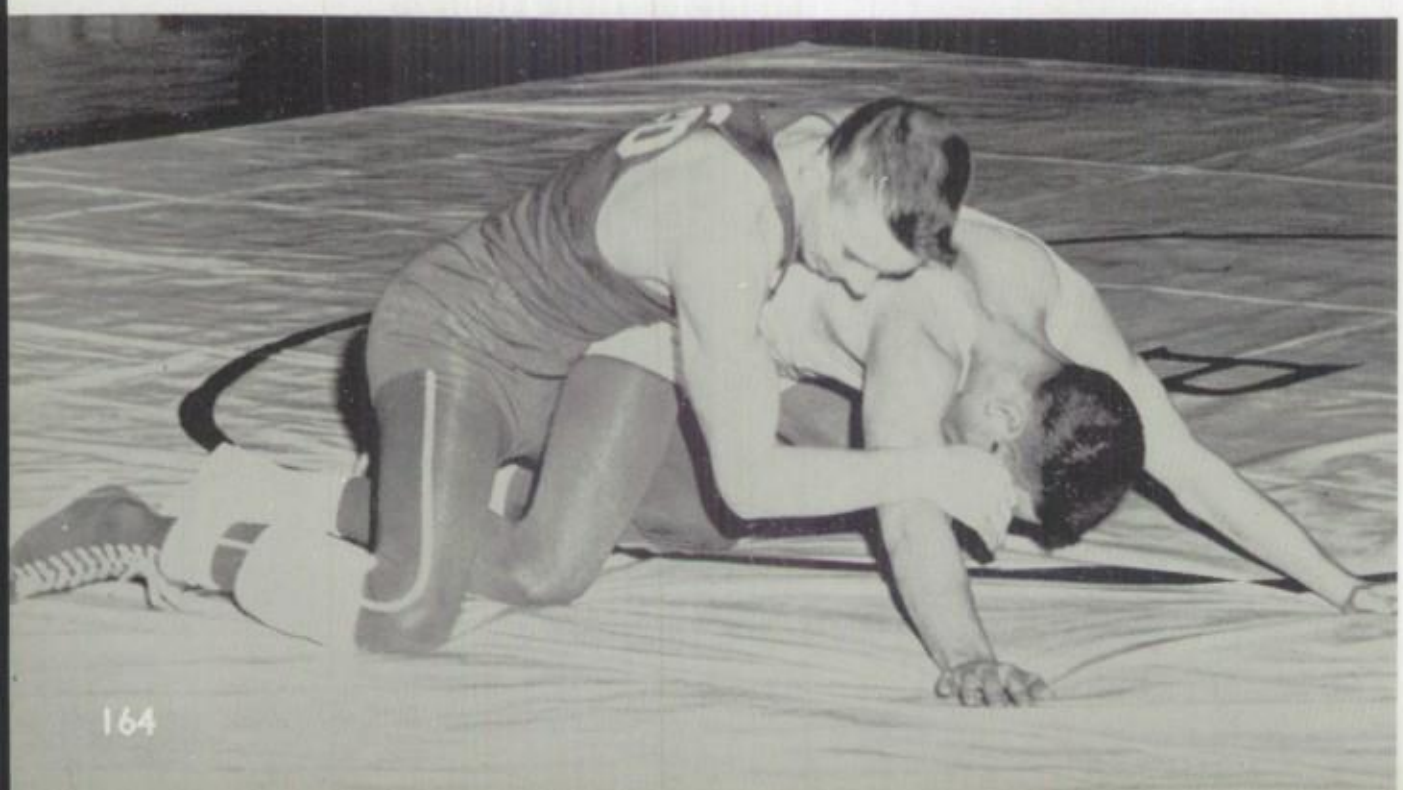
Hot and cold—this is one of his hot nights when Lee Clark nearly pins one of Hollidaysburg's top-notch wrestlers.



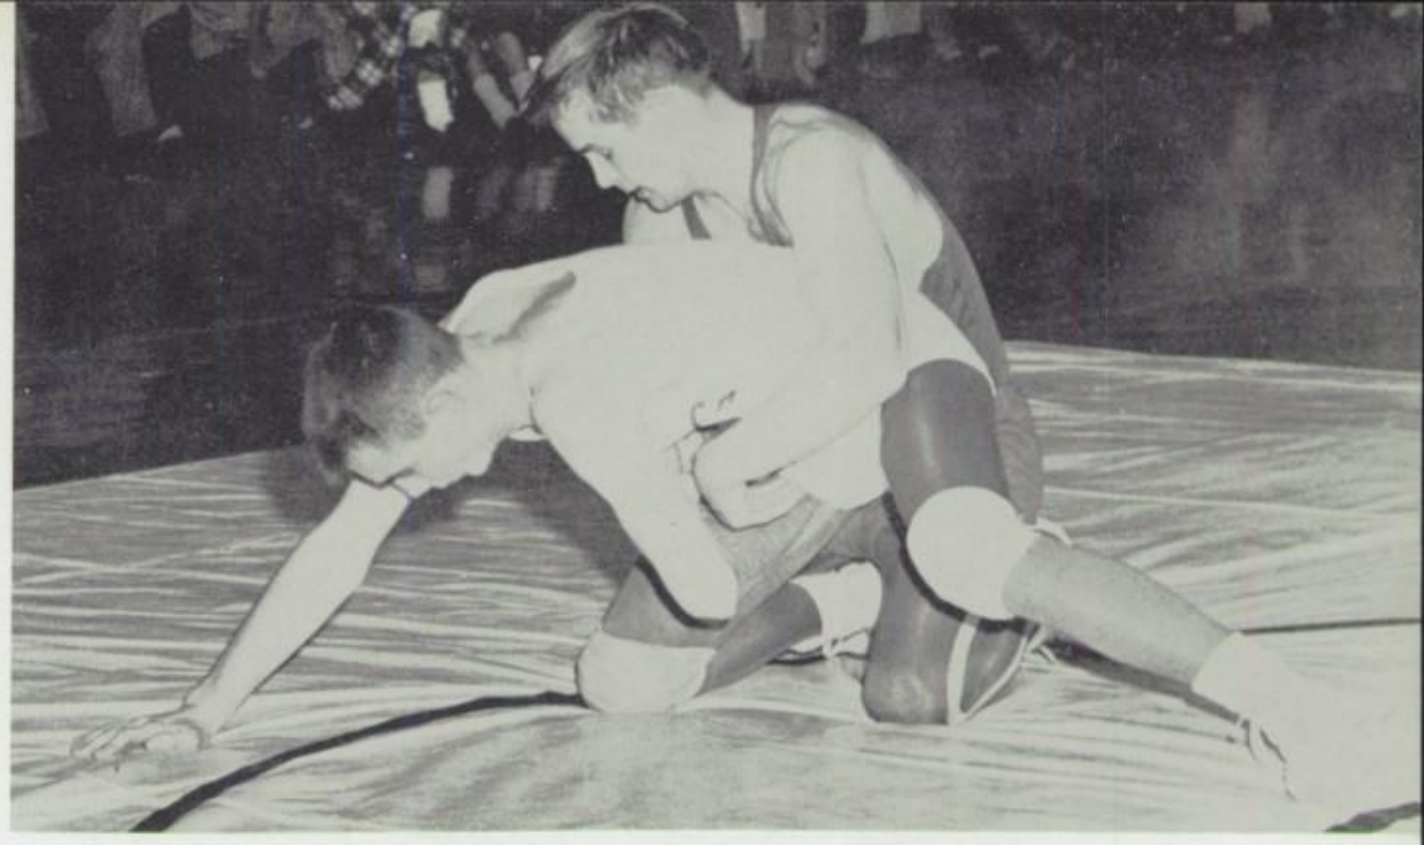
Gary Jones is doing a fine job and is leading his opponent at this point in the match.



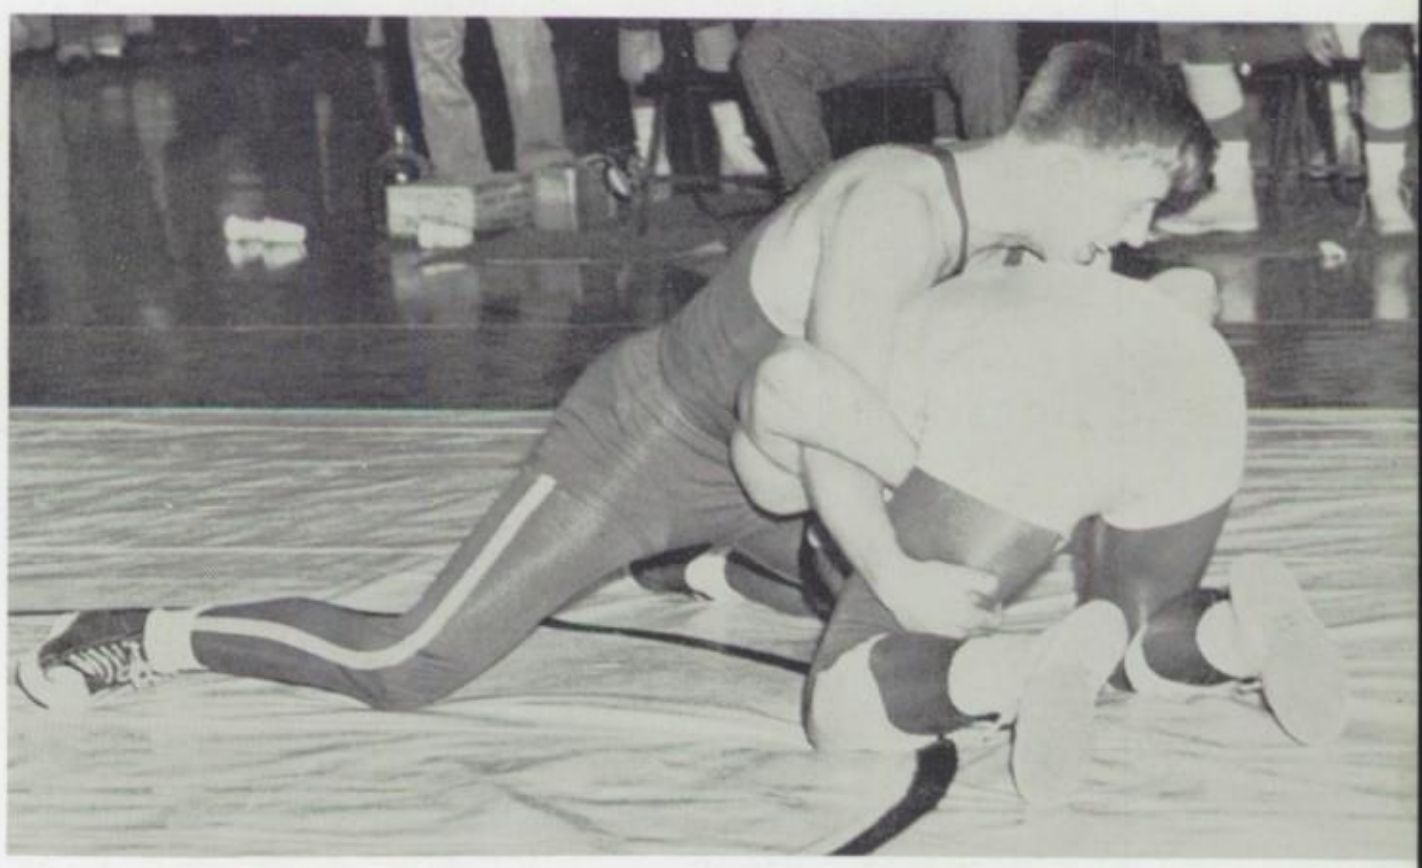
Bob Whitehead in his usual style has the pressure on as he easily defeats his opponent. This puts Bedford ahead in the match.



Proper position and good balance are displayed here by Sam Hoagland as he gains the first win by Bedford over Hollidaysburg.



Captain, Dick "Harvey" Koontz, is displaying fine matsmanship as always—later he pins his opponent.



Ralph Snyder puts up a strong defense against his rugged opponent.

John Rudisill, ready to tangle, is waiting for official's whistle.

INDUSTRY

IN APPRECIATION

We should like to take this opportunity to express our very deep appreciation to our commercial friends who have found it possible to purchase advertising space in this, the 1958 edition of our high school yearbook. We feel confident that you have made no mistake in investing in this great project. Modern yearbook advertising is of far greater value than some people are prone to believe. For long-time value and lasting effect, perhaps there is no other advertising medium which offers so much for so little, as does the yearbook of each graduating class. The yearbook is very dear to the heart of every graduate, and as the years go by, somehow he "doesn't forget to remember" who his friends were at the time he graduated. Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Congratulations!

These are days of decision. Graduation from high school places a new responsibility on the individual, whether it be on to college, to work, and for whom, or to heed Uncle Sam's call. It is a new kind of thinking.

Business and government leaders are also faced with decisions,—that may well change the course of American history.

In any event you can be proud to be from Bedford. Colleges welcome you because they have faith in our academic standards. Employers welcome you because they have faith in you.

All of Bedford Is Proud of You.

Always Be Proud of Bedford.

THE FORT BEDFORD INN

Students and parents, please make it a "MUST" to patronize our friends who have advertised in this book.

Success! Graduates!

BEDFORD HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

To you, Graduates of 1958, we extend our heartiest congratulations and sincere wishes for a happy, successful future.

You can be justly proud of your scholastic achievements, and we join with all your friends and neighbors in saluting you.
